No-Discrimination Principle Is Upheld by I. C. C. Ruling

Reduction in Freight Rates on Dozen Commodities Shipped North Ordered by Commission.

SAVING ESTIMATED

Decision Says Schedules
Clearly Are Unduly
Preferential to the East

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—(AP)—In a 5-to-4 decision, the Interstate Commerce Commission upheld today the south's long-standing complaint against "discriminatory" freight rates, and ordered reductions in northbound rail charges on a list of manufactured articles.

Granting a plea of the Southern Governors' Conference, the commission, in effect, recognized the principle of establishing rate parity between shipments wholly within the north and those from the south to northern points.

Do Not Okay All Cuts.

On a dozen commodities, the commission ordered rate reductions ranging from five to 35 per cent. On about as many others covered in the southern complaint, it ordered no changes, pointing out there was no evidence that existing rates were unlawful.

Because it established the principle of rate parity between the north and the south, the order was regarded here, however, as a significant development in the long fight over territorial rail levels.

Encourages Campaign.

It was generally believed that the southern governors' success in this case would encourage them to file proceedings seeking a general downward revision of southern rates.

Two new members, Commissioners J. Haden Alldredge and William Patterson, did not participate in the decision.

Those supporting it were Commissioners Clyde B. Aitchison, William E. Lee, Marion M. Caskey, Walter M. W. Splawn, and John L. Rogers. Against it were Chairman Joseph B. Eastman and Commissioners Claude R. Porter, Charles D. Mahaffie, and Carroll Miller.

The majority held that the desirability of reasonably uniform rate structures was not open to serious question.

Mrs. Roosevelt is shown above while on a visit to the Dies committee, where she was "disappointed" because she heard "nothing new." Appearing with Mrs. Roosevelt is William W. Hinckley, former chairman of the American Youth Congress.

TRIAL IN CLAYTON IS LIKELY MONDAY

Commissioners Probably Will Be Called Then as Court Is Extended.

Five Clayton county commissioners who have been indicted on a charge of malpractice in office probably will be called to trial Monday morning in a prolonged session of the Clayton superior court.

The officials, whom a grand jury charged with five counts earlier in the week, posted individual $500 bonds Wednesday night, shortly after Judge James C. Davis issued bench warrants for their arrest. They are H. Grady Moore, F. C. Cargile, W. S. Lee, E. L. Stephens and Dr. J. R. Wallis.

Judge Davis, who presides over the Stone Mountain circuit, yesterday said he would continue su-

FIRST LADY VISITS DIES GROUP TWICE

Hearing Leaders Testify

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt bethelized her continued faith in the American Youth Congress today by dropping in twice at the Dies committee hearing to listen to youth leaders testify—and taking the boys and girls to lunch at the White House during the noon recess.

When the committee failed to call William Hinckley, former congress chairman, at its morning session, Mrs. Roosevelt returned in the afternoon and stayed until the congress leaders were called, although it meant missing a 4:30 o'clock appointment. Several months ago Kenneth Goff, who said he was a former Communist, told the committee that Hinckley was a Communist and that the Youth Congress was "Communist-dominated."

At that time Mrs. Roosevelt said she knew definitely that neither Hinckley nor Joseph Cadden, congress executive secretary, were

GRAVE ROOSEVELT CLOSELY WATCHES RUSSIAN INVASION

Angry Legislators Demand Severance of Relations With Soviet Union; Hull Sees F. D. R.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Gravely concerned over the Russian invasion of Finland, President Roosevelt held a series of conferences today which led the capital to wonder whether some new American move in behalf of the Finns was in prospect.

Mr. Roosevelt called on both Finland and Russia today to pledge that they would not resort to the "barbarism" of bombing civilian populations from the air. The President's message was delivered by American diplomatic representatives in Moscow and Helsinki.

Secretary of State Hull was closeted with Mr. Roosevelt for an hour and a half. He left the White House without disclosing the nature of the conference to reporters.

(A United Press dispatch said President Roosevelt may ask congressional leaders to help him decide what course to take in the Russo-Finnish situation, it was learned tonight as angry legislators demanded severance of diplomatic relations with the Soviet Union.)

The State Department received a report tonight that 15 Russian airplanes had raided Helsinki, in the immediate vicinity of the American legation.

A little earlier the Finnish minister, Hjalmar J. Procope, talked with both the President and Hull after holding a telephonic consultation with members of his government in Finland.

Reporters told Procope that the Russians were insisting they had committed no hostile acts in his country.

"What?" he gasped. "No hostilities in Finland."
Questioned about reports that

TRAFFIC COURT BILL PREPARED

Measure Will Be Presented to City Council Police Committee Tonight.

A proposed ordinance creating a special traffic court with Recorder John L. Cone as judge will be presented to city council's police committee tonight, it was announced yesterday by Councilman Mac Bolen, committee chairman.

City Attorney Jack C. Savage has prepared the ordinance and the move is the sequel to a proposal made by Councilman Howard Haire.

The Haire proposal was sent to the police committee for study and Savage was asked to prepare an ordinance embodying Haire's suggestion.

Under provisions of the proposed ordinance, arresting officers are directed to assign all traffic cases to Cone's division, while all other cases will be assigned to Judge A. W. Callaway, of the first division.

The new measure, which proponents predicted freely will get the approval of the police committee and of the mayor and city council, will have the effect of segregating traffic offenders from Russia's invasion of Finland yesterday brought consternation and quick demonstrations in Scandinavia, a cleavage in reaction of the axis powers and condemnation from Great Britain.

Although Norway, Sweden and Denmark officially maintained their neutrality in the Russian-Finnish war, their nationals expressed concern and amazement at the development and anti-Soviet feeling ran high in Norway.

An angry crowd at Oslo smashed windows in the office of Communist newspaper Arbeideren, which editorially has endorsed the Soviet moves against Finland. Oslo students marched to the Finnish legation to express their sympathy.

A Swedish foreign office spokesman said his country was prepared for eventualities and no new measures were needed.

Reactions from other world capitals:
London—Parliament resounded with condemnation but indications were that Britain could do nothing to help Finland. Prime Minister Chamberlain told a sympathetic house of commons his government regarded as unjustified this "fresh attack on a small, independent nation."

MILLER LASHES AT RIVERS ORDER

Warns of 'Dictatorship'
If Control of Highway Board Is Upheld by Law

The most violent row of the Rivers administration broke out yesterday when Chairman W. L. Miller, of the highway board, who has been at odds with the Governor more than a year, declared that if Rivers' executive order controlling the highway department is "upheld by law the people of Georgia do not have any government at all, but instead have only a dictatorship."

Miller hurled his charge in a speech before the Rotary Club at Griffin.

"When we disregard statutory and constitutional law in Georgia we are undermining our freedom and liberty for which our forefathers fought," the board chairman said.

Rivers was in seclusion writing his radio speech for Saturday night and could not be reached for comment but immediately after the Miller speech there were reports current at the capitol that the Governor was planning to remove the board chairman.

Miller made the charge against

U. S. Reds Uphold Invasion of Finland!

BOSTON, Nov. 30.—(UP)—The Communist party of Massachusetts will distribute 100,000 copies of a statement tomorrow which will say that Russia's invasion of Finland merely "is stopping Chamberlain and Wall Street in the Baltic."

"The Red army is on the march again . . . for peace and for socialism," the statement reads. "The Red army is dealing powerful blows against world imperialism."

"The officials of the semi-Fascist government of Finland have deliberately provoked war. They have involved their peaceful people in a useless and senseless war against the U. S. S. R. They are ready to sacrifice the lives of thousands of their people to carry out the instructions of Chamberlain and Wall Street."

The statement purported to show that Finland's leaders have airplanes ready in which to flee the country "as the Polish colonels did the Polish people."

It further stated that the Soviet Union had sought to solve the issues between the two governments peacefully and that Premier and Foreign Commissar V. M. Molotov's proposals never had threatened Finnish independence.

Further Raids Withheld.
(The newspaper said Finnish leaders were working through the night to complete organization of a new cabinet, which was expected to contact the Kremlin later today through the United States embassy in Moscow.)

Report Red Fire On Hungarians

BUDAPEST, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Reports from the Ruthenian frontier today said Russian soldiers had opened fire on a number of Hungarian sentries.

There was no official confirmation, but it was learned that tension had been caused in the frontier region by the shipment into Ruthenia of Russian propaganda pamphlets which were reported to have been seized by Hungarian military authorities.

The reports increased bitterness on the part of the public against Russia over the attack upon Finland, with whom Hungarians claim racial kinship.

Official quarters, however, had not yet received a report of the resignation and professed to have no knowledge of a Finnish desire to negotiate.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—(Friday)—(AP)—A telephone conversation between Washington and Helsinki, capital of Finland, shortly after 2 a. m. (E. S. T.) today was reported interrupted by air raid warnings and the noise of bursting bombs. No further details were obtainable.

By LYNN HEINZERLING.

HELSINKI, Dec. 1.—(Friday)—(AP)—The Finnish government, its capital bombed and aflame, with the Soviet Russian army swarming across its frontier, resigned early today despite a unanimous vote of confidence in parliament.

The cabinet, which for weeks had negotiated vainly with Moscow on Russia's territorial demands on the little republic, stepped aside after a Moscow broadcast threatened annihilation of Helsinki unless an agreement was reached by 3 a. m. today (7 p. m. Atlanta time Thursday).

Deadline Passes.

(Between late yesterday and 3 a. m. today—the deadline of Russia's reported ultimatum—at least 50,000 civilians were estimated to have fled from the capital, a United Press dispatch said.)

(The deadline of the ultimatum passed without further attack by Soviet bombers.)

(The Helsinki correspondent of the newspaper Berlingske Tidende said today that a new Finnish government was preparing a proposal to grant all of Russia's original demands, for territory and military bases, including a base on Hango peninsula.)

Further Raids Withheld.

IN CHILD'S DEATH*Found Strangled in Hay Baler Near Home in Gordon County.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION. CALHOUN, Ga., Nov. 30.—A child's curiosity was held responsible today for the death of three-year-old Charles Pass, found strangled in a hay baler near her home in the Plainville community in southwestern Gordon county.

The child, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Pass, was believed to have climbed to the top of the machine and fallen foremost into the hopper where hay is fed. No one was near the machine, which was standing idle on the Pass farm.

Besides her parents, the child is survived by a six-year-old brother.

perior court at Jonesboro until the Clayton docket was completed. He then ordered checked for one week a session of the DeKalb county grand jury and superior court originally scheduled for Monday morning.

The indictments charge the commissioners with appropriating county police and sheriff's office salaries without a required tax levy, contracting with the sheriff granting him a commission on tax fee, he collected, and three counts of illegally letting county supply contracts without public bid.

After indicting the entire commission, the grand jury recommended, in its presentment, that a one-man commission form of government be instituted in Clayton county by legislative action to "insure more efficient operation."

It also urged that a county purchasing agent be employed to have sole responsibility over the purchase and use of supplies and materials.

other types of law violators and will to a large extent remedy the criticism arising from forcing ladies to sit alongside underworld characters to await trial on minor traffic charges.

No Provision Yet.
No provision has yet been made for the trial of traffic cases outside the recorder's courtroom, but it was suggested yesterday that such a program might be devised by converting the meeting room of the police committee on the second floor of the police station into temporary quarters.

Establishment of the traffic court and assignment of one of the recorders to preside over it will almost equally divide the work, it was pointed out yesterday.

Of the 77,492 cases made by city police for the first 10 months of this year, 39,012 were for traffic law violations and 38,480 were for other offenses of all kinds.

MILLER LASHES

Rivers without mentioning the chief executive by name, came after he had made a summation of the highway department's financial position to the Griffin club.

The speech is believed to have been an outgrowth of the chairman's opposition to the Governor's plan of expending the $2,600,000 realized last week through the sale of highway certificates. It is known that Miller desired to use this money to match federal funds and carry on federal aid highway work while Rivers, by executive order, directed that it be used to pay current debts of the highway department. Federal aid work has been practically at a standstill, due to the Governor's orders impounding more than $3,000,000 in highway funds for the schools.

It was said last week before the order directing the use of the bond money was issued that Miller was considering defying the Rivers order and testing the Governor's authority in the courts but he and other board members acceded to it without controversy.

Says Work Halted.

In his speech yesterday, Miller said the Governor's orders which have halted construction work and curtailed personnel were "most unfortunate from an administrative and practical business standpoint."

He continued: "Our government is supposed to be administered under a kind of law, statutory and constitutional. The organization of the highway board, its duties and responsibilities, and the selection of its personnel are definitely provided for by statutory law. When we disregard statutory or constitutional law in Georgia we are undermining our freedom and liberty for which our fathers fought."

The clash between Rivers and Miller writes another chapter in the long series of wars between the executive and the highway department but marks the first between a Governor and the chairman he appointed.

Miller and Rivers have been neighbors at Lakeland for more than 15 years. When the county of Lanier was created in the twenties, Rivers was a lawyer at Cairo and Miller was among those who joined in inducing him to move to Lakeland.

1 fat hen
1 small ham hock
1 large onion
1 large can tomatoes
Salt
Pepper
Celery salt
Paprika
2 tablespoons butter
1 pint chopped oysters

Slowly boil the ham hock and hen together in three quarts of water. When tender remove chicken, and hock, let cool, remove bones and dice. Return to the stock, add other ingredients and simmer slowly until thick. Serve with steamed rice.
Mexican Eggs
Submitted by Mrs. H. M. Shaver, 1194 Clifton road, N. E. Atlanta.
To two tablespoons hot fat in frying pan add one-half cup of onions and one medium-sized bell pepper, both finely chopped. Pour in a small can of tomato paste and 1-2 cup water. When it boils add six well-beaten eggs and stir quickly. Season with salt, pepper. A prize of $1 each is awarded every Friday. Address your recipes to The Constitution or to Sally Saver.

SALLY SAVER'S NOTEBOOK

Don't overlook the pleasant change which fish for breakfast affords during cold weather. Smoked or salted fish or fish fillets which come in cans make a delightful breakfast dish. With scrambled eggs they're perfect! For Sunday breakfast do this: Serve half a grapefruit, do this: by mackerel fillets and scrambled eggs. With this serve piping hot buttered toast, hot muffins or hot corn muffins and cranapple jelly or pear preserves. Plenty of coffee, of course.
A New Squash Idea.
Here is something new, chopped peanuts on squash. Ta 3 cups mashed steamed squash, add 2 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons brown sugar, 1-3 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon paprika, 1-3 cup cream. Mix and place in a baking dish. Sprinkle with 1-2 cup chopped roasted peanuts, place in moderate oven 10 minutes. Serve hot.
Oyster Pie.
1-2 cup cream sauce
1 cup oysters
1 teaspoon chopped onion
2 teaspoons chopped celery
1 teaspoon minced-parsley
1-4 cup cream
Mix the sauce with the oysters and seasonings. Pour in a shallow, buttered baking dish. Cover with the potatoes which have been blended with the cream (to soften left-over potatoes). Bake in a moderate oven.
Fruit Cobbler.
Biscuit dough
1 cup cooked apricots
1-2 cup cooked prunes
1-2 cup brown sugar
1-4 teaspoon cinnamon
1-2 teaspoon grated lemon rind
2 tablespoons butter
Line individual baking dishes or large dish with thin layer of biscuit dough. Reserve some dough for the top crust. Fill with the fruit and sugar mixture, place top crust over, stick with a fork and bake in a moderate oven 20 minutes. Serve warm, with fruit sauce, hard sauce or cream.
Ham Omelet.
4 egg yolks
1-3 cup milk
1-4 teaspoon salt
1-4 teaspoon paprika
1-4 teaspoon celery salt
1-2 cup cooked ham, chopped
4 egg whites, beaten
2 tablespoons fat
Mix the yolks with the milk, seasonings and ham. Lightly fold in the whites. Pour into the fat which has been heated. Cook slowly until the omelet is brown underneath. Make a crease across the top with the back of a knife (if you're not using an omelet pan) lightly fold half over. Hold in place with two forks and cook 2 minutes longer. Cook omelets slowly, fast cooking toughens eggs.

Meat Loaf Offers Wife Opportunity To Economize Pleasant, Easy Way

Saving Lies in Fact That Less Expensive Cuts Can Be Used for Grinding, and Pleasing Part Is That Serving Good Loaf Is Notable Event.

By SALLY SAVER.

A meat loaf offers opportunity for the housewife to economize in a pleasant, easy way. The economy lies in the fact that the less expensive cuts can be used for grinding and the pleasant part is that a good meat loaf is really something to talk about.

It is not necessary to buy round steak for meat loaf; the shank, chuck or neck cuts are just as well-flavored and nutritious, and the grinding breaks the long muscle fibers making for adequate tenderness. The best-liked meat loaf mixture is beef and pork in the proportion of 1 pound beef to 1-2 pound pork. When only beef is used it is well to have a little suet ground with the lean to make for better flavor. Ground veal makes good meat loaf and this too, should have a little pork ground with it, 1-4 pound of lean and fat pork to 2 pounds of veal gives good flavor.

Try this Italian meat loaf for your Sunday dinner.

ARBOR DAY AWARDS
SET FOR SATURDAYDeKalb Children To Hold Tree-Planting on Courthouse Lawn.

Children of DeKalb county will celebrate Arbor Day Saturday morning in a tree-planting ceremony on the court house lawn arranged by Mrs. A. B. Pardington and the DeKalb County Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture.

Certification will be awarded 531 school children who, since April 1, have participated in a clean-up, paint-up and plant-up campaign sponsored by the chamber. The awards will be presented upon a point basis to those who produced the best possible results in the campaign.

On the program, which begins at 10 o'clock, will be Charles D. McKinney, who will award the certificates; Commissioner Scott Candler, who will accept for the county a dogwood tree which a children's committee will plant; Mrs. Pardington, and R. H. Sled, of the school superintendent's office.

The program will include a salute to the tree, a song by the Tucker High school glee club, "Trees" by Mrs. S. G. Stukes, and the planting ceremony. A dogwood tree was selected, it was said, because three-fourths of the dogwood in the Fifth District grows in DeKalb county.

Step Right Up!
Job Is Begging

This is news—even if it is a bit discouraging.

An $1,800 a year job is actually going begging in the city government just because there are no takers.

Several days ago, the city personnel department advertised for a medical records librarian with the age limit set at 21 to 40 years.

The fly in the ointment was the list of qualifications. An applicant must have been graduated from a school for records approved by the Association of Records Librarians of North America or have had experience as chief records librarian in a hospital approved by the American College of Surgeons, topped by a high school diploma.

The board ordered the job re-advertised with the age limit extended from 21 to 45 years. Applications must be filed at the city hall by noon tomorrow.

Both parties win when you use Constitution Want Ads.

In addition to his church connections, he also served for a time as general secretary, trustee and field representative of Shorter College, vice president of the Georgia Baptist convention, president of the Home Mission Board of the Southern Baptist convention, and as a member of the executive committee of the Georgia convention.

Educated at Trinity College, Durham, N. C., and at Richmond College, Richmond, Va., he obtained his D. D. degree at Mercer University, Macon, Ga., in 1910.

Surviving are his wife, the former Miss Blanche Wilson of North Carolina; a daughter, Mrs. T. M. Forbes, of Atlanta, wife of the secretary of the Cotton Manufacturers' Association of Georgia, and a son, J. Thomas Christie. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Macon Businessman-Philanthropist Succumbs at Age of 85.

Robert Jenks Taylor, 85, Macon philanthropist, who accumulated a fortune as a merchant, drug executive and banker, died yesterday, a month after entering an Atlanta hospital.

He began working years ago, but the urge to work carried him back into active business and he held numerous executive positions, civic and business, at his death.

Mr. Taylor built the R. J. Memorial Taylor hospital in Hawkinsville, his birthplace, and donated it to the city. Five years ago he distributed and put more than $1,000,000 in trust for members of his family.

SIMPLE COOKERY STRESSED TO CLASS

Constitution Foods Editor Holds School at Capitol View Church.

Sally Saver, foods editor of The Constitution, stressed simplicity in food preparation yesterday at the fourth of her series of informal cooking schools, sponsored by The Constitution.

The class, which was held for the women of the Capitol View Methodist church, met in the assembly room at the church. Miss Saver cooked two mixed grills, suitable for one-dish meals.

She explained how delicious meals may be planned and prepared with wholesome, inexpensive ingredients.

In demonstrating the preparation of a dinner, with pot roast as the centerpiece, Miss Saver showed how the roast may be garnished with cranberries and sweet potatoes, and she prepared a salad suitable for serving with the roast, consisting of pears, cherries, and cream cheese, in a green gelatin mold. Brussels sprouts were part of the dinner menu.

The main feature of the demonstration was a tamale pie, baked with onions, garlic, salad oil, round steak, chili powder, tomatoes, and ripe olives.

Miss Saver, who is noted for her practical methods of preparing food, will hold another class soon, the date to be announced in The Constitution.

United States Housing Authority yesterday approved a $1,074,252 bid for construction of the second section of John Hope Homes, low rent negro housing project, R. L. MacDougall, retiring technical director of the Atlanta Housing Authority, announced yesterday.

Officials said the successful bid, submitted by A. Farnell Blair, of Decatur, covered general construction including plumbing, heating, electrical work, demolition, site improvement and landscaping. Work on the 358-unit section will begin on December 15 and be completed within approximately one year.

Dieters 'Feast' on Black-Eyed Peas, Fourth of an Egg

Staring sadly at pans of beefsteak and chicken, these four Georgia Tech students pass up the better ways of living and take a plateful of black-eyed peas and one-quarter of a fried egg as part of their self-imposed diet which regulates them to war rations of Germany. Left to right are Henry Mayo, George Stribling, James T. Scanlon and Ed Schmidt. Serving Schmidt is Bill Borden. The boys yesterday entered their third day of the diet, reporting slight losses of weight.

Tech Diet Experimenters Assert They Also Work Hard as Nazis

One Lists Schedule of 72 Hours a Week at 'Hard Labor.'

By CHARLES GILMORE.

The four Georgia Tech "Germans," in so far as eating habits are concerned, were a bit irritated yesterday. They had read an editorial which appeared in The Constitution Wednesday morning, making two allegations.

In order to prove anything, it said, the boys must not only eat Nazi war rations but also refrain from riding in automobiles because of the gasoline shortage, and do hard labor at least 12 hours a day as befits a German youth.

So yesterday George Stribling pulled his lean and hungry self together and recounted how he spent 31 hours a week in classes, 30 hours a week studying, eight hours a week fencing, and three hours a week in R. O. T. C. drill. His "if that isn't hard labor I'll eat it" was chorused by the other three who have similar schedules. Particularly irritated was Ed Schmidt, who, instead of fencing, has 15 hours per week devoted to a student job.

As to automobile riding, they sneered, and cried out for a college student with enough money, (1) to buy an automobile; (2) to furnish it with gasoline even in this land of plenty.

As to what they are proving they pointed to the scales, falling faster than a barometer in the middle of a typhoon. Henry Mayo's weight dropped so fast, he said yesterday, it made him dizzy—literally dizzy.

Yesterday's lunch with beef stew and turnips was hailed as the best meal encountered so far on the diet of German war rations begun last Monday. Today their fare switches to an accent even more German than before. Hereafter they have been allotted eight slices of rye bread apiece, but yesterday Manager Jack Lester, of the Georgia Tech College Inn, where the boys are eating, said he had prepared real potato bread. And potato bread, although it looks white and fluffy, is said to be tough and tasteless.

If you want to keep it a secret don't put it in The Constitution's Want Ads.

HERE'S TODAY'S GERMAN 'DIET'

Today's individual menus for the four Georgia Tech students who are eating nothing but German war rations are:

JEWS TO OBSERVE FEAST OF LIGHTS

Eight-Day Celebration of Chanukko Will Begin Thursday.

Jews the world over will begin a new century of symbolic redemption of themselves to the ideals of their faith next Thursday with kindling of the lights of Chanukko, the feast of lights.

The feast, the 25th day of Kislev, 5700, according to the Jewish calendar, marks the anniversary of the rededication in 165 B. C. of the Temple altar which had been recaptured from the Syrian tyrant, Antiochus.

According to legend, the first cruse of oil lighted in the reclaimed temple, lasted for eight days, so today, in celebrating the feast, Jews kindle lights for the same length of time. On each successive day of the holiday a new candle is lighted.

Joyousness of the occasion is indicated by special games and dainties for the table. Conservative, Orthodox and Reform Jews alike join in the observance of Chanukko, according to the Tract Commission, of the Central Conference of American Rabbis and Union of American Hebrew Congregations.

TALMADGE SPIKES FARM POST RUMOR

Ex-Governor, in Villa Rica, Says He'll Not Run for Commissioner.

VILLA RICA, Ga., Nov. 30.—(AP) Former Governor Talmadge made a political announcement today concerning his plans for 1940, but it wasn't a bid for return to the chief executive's chair.

Addressing a crowd at an American Legion celebration on what he called "The Real Thanksgiving Day," he said some persons had been "slipping around the state saying that Talmadge was going to run for commissioner of agriculture next year."

"I am not announcing for anything right now," he said, "but I am announcing this: 'Talmadge is not going to run for commissioner of agriculture.'"

The speaker asserted that while he was state commissioner of agriculture that job amounted to something, but that now, with the government's AAA program, the commissioner is "nothing but a knot on a log."

He suggested the job be abolished and the money be used to pay the school teachers.

Talmadge also said the state could pay between $5,000,000 and $8,000,000 a year by converting the handsome new state office building into a farmers' warehouse.

"All you'd have to do," he said, "would be to put in two or three freight elevators. You'd save a lot of money, because you wouldn't have to pay so many state salaries."

BARN, STOCK BURNED.

JURY IS REPORTED TO BE PONDERING ELLIS HEALTH LAW

Understood To Be Studying Advisability of Recommending Its Provisions for Fulton County.

The advisability of recommending the provisions of the Ellis health law for Fulton county is being considered by the Fulton grand jury, it was reported yesterday on the eve of the appointment of two new jurors at the regular meeting today.

Though officials of the jury have made no statement, it was known that several of them are interested in health matters and that the Ellis health law has been under consideration.

Law Provides.
This law provides that when two successive juries make favorable recommendations for it, a single health department for the county would be set up to operate under the general supervision of the State Department of Health.

At present, the city and the county have separate health departments and it was understood that both city and county officials are opposed to the combination required under the Ellis law. One grand jury, of which Lewis D. Sharp, foreman of the present jury, was a member, recommended the law several years ago but the succeeding jury did not, it was said.

A number of organizations in the county have been agitating for a merger of the units as well as other branches, but without success thus far.

To Study Feasibility.
Committees of the current jury appointed by Foreman Sharp are to study the feasibility of the step and are also studying the relief situation in Fulton county in compliance with the request in the preceding grand jury, it was understood.

Judge Virlyn B. Moore, who charged this jury, is to swear in F. M. Allen, of route five, and F. Graham Williams, of Buckhead, as jurors this morning in superior court. The jury has not had its full panel of 23 men.

GEORGIANS RECEIVE POSTAL ADVANCES

Two Atlantans Are Promoted in Railway Mail Service.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—Ambrose O'Connell, second assistant postmaster general, today signed orders promoting three Georgians in the railway mail service.

E. D. (Buck) Adams, who has been in the service with headquarters at Atlanta for many years, was moved up to the superintendency of the service in the fourth division which includes Georgia, Florida, Alabama, South Carolina, and a part of Tennessee to succeed J. R. Boyd who has reached the retirement age.

John L. Fulghum, Hapeville, will be the new assistant superintendent, to succeed Mr. Adams, and Andrew Threadwell, Atlanta, has been promoted to chief clerk of the division.

Deputy Second Assistant Postmaster General James Cole, another Georgian, and Mr. O'Connell lauded the work of the promoted railway mail service employees and said their elevation was justly deserved.

REPAIRS UNDER WAY AT GRANT PARK

Cyclorama To Be Ready for 'Gone With the Wind' Festival.

Grant Park and the famous Confederate exhibits there will be ready for the crowds of visitors expected during the "Gone With the Wind" celebration, General Park Manager George I. Simons declared yesterday.

Paving the road to the ruins of Fort Walker in the park has already begun and will be completed for the premiere. In addition, to handle the capacity crowds expected, a four-foot concrete walkway has been begun around the lawn in front of the Cyclorama. The Cyclorama lecturer will be provided with an electric pointer, to illustrate details of the big circular canvas.

Portraits of Jefferson Davis and Alexander H. Stephens, scheduled to be exhibited at the Junior League ball on December 14, will be hung in the Cyclorama building following the ball, Mayor Hartfield said.

WIND MAY SUPPLY POWER FOR FARMS

Hapeville Man Invents Electricity-Producing Device.

A windmill generator, which its inventor claims will supply 60 cycle alternating electric current, has been devised by William B. Scott, a Hapeville radio technician. Although no working model of the invention has been constructed, Scott has received a patent for the device on the basis of his drawings and plans. Should the device become a reality, it will permit farmers to operate electrical devices similar to those used in urban districts from wind power, he said.

DECISION UPHOLDS SOUTH ON PARITY

of one producing section are subjected to a higher level of rates than to such markets than are like products of adjacent competing producing sections less distance to such markets," said the order, "it generally cannot develop unless, and then only to the extent that, the differences in transportation charges can be offset by lower production costs or absorbed by a reduction in profits.

"And even though differences in transportation charges can be thus offset or absorbed, this in itself generally tends to retard its growth and prosperity. In these circumstances, it is apparent that the relation of the rates may be of greater importance than their intrinsic level or measure. This is largely the situation here presented."

Deny Cost Plea.

The carriers, defendants in the complaint, had contended that higher unit costs of transporting goods in the south provided justification for higher rates, but the commission majority said:

"It is a fair conclusion from the record as a whole, and we accordingly find, that the cost of transporting the articles named in the complaint from producing points in the south into the north, compared with that of transporting like articles within the north, does not justify the maintenance thereon of higher levels of rates than are applicable on like articles within the north."

Listing some of the rail charges in dispute, the commission said it was "clear the rates assessed on those commodities are unduly prejudicial to the southern producers and unduly preferential of their northern competitors."

In dissenting, Eastman argued that the average cost of service was higher in the south than in the north.

"The record before us does not, in my opinion, justify the basic conclusions and findings of the majority," he added.

Eastman charged that southern lines, connecting with northern carriers, "have insisted on divisions which would give them the lion's share of the joint revenue." He suggested a system of division which he said would give the complainants what they desired.

Miller said in a dissenting opinion he believed the southern complaint should be dismissed "for lack of proof."

The majority decision ordered reductions on stoves and ranges, stone, industry marble, enameled iron or steel plumbers' goods, iron body valves, fire hydrants, cast iron pipe fittings, brass pipe fittings, cocks and valves, talc and soapstone, and papeteries.

Reductions were denied on hol-loware, fireplace fixtures, electrical appliances, boots and shoes, excelsior, wood, and excelsior packing mats, paper articles except papeteries, metal furniture, canned goods, pottery, cordage and binder twine.

$7,500,000 SAVING.
McDONALD ASSERTS
Chairman Walter R. McDonald, of the Georgia Public Service Commission, who took a leading part in the fight for the equalization of rates, declared that the ICC verdict will mean a "saving to the south of from $7,500,000 to $10,000,000 a year" on the items included in yesterday's order.

Governor Rivers, as chairman of the Southeastern Governors' Conference, said he felt the decision would result in the Governors' pressing their fight for elimination of the differentials in all commodity rates and also in class rates.

Governor Rivers said that when the new rates are put into effect it will be the first time in the history of the south that the section has had a rate parity with the north.

Chairman McDonald of the Public Service Commission hailed the decision in the following statement:

"This is the greatest victory that has ever come to the south. It means a direct annual saving in freight rates to the south on the commodities involved of an estimated amount of seven and a half to ten million dollars and unquestionably the favorable decision in this case will control the decision in the pending cotton piece goods case which will add a further estimated saving of two and a half million dollars to our textile industry."

"This will necessarily mean a large increase in our manufacturing income and a resulting increase to our per capita income. Now that income is less than one-half of that of the north. There is no reason why we should not anticipate that within a short time it will equal that of the north."

Mayor Hartsfield was among those who rejoiced over the decision as it includes a lowered rate on talk shipped from north Georgia into official territory. The mayor is president of the Southern Talc Company at Chatsworth which, with two other companies, launched a fight for parity several years ago.

ATLANTANS WATCH MILK PRICE FIGHT

controlling the Georgia milk situation.

"The attorneys of the milk trust are always in attendance when any bill affecting them is introduced in the Georgia legislature," he said.

"The Georgia Milk Control Board," he went on, "is setting the profits on milk so extremely high that it keeps in business the most inefficient operators."

The arguments brought to light some interesting facts about Atlanta's huge milk business. The sleepy-eyed city dweller who gets the bottle of milk at his door each morning probably doesn't stop to think about what's back of that bottle of milk.

What Milk Costs.
But whether Atlantans realize it or not they are paying 14 cents a quart at stores, 56 cents a gallon to the retailer, and 10 cents a quart to the independent. Of this amount about seven cents per quart goes to the farmer.

In other words, the distributing plant buys regular bottle milk from the farmer at a little more than seven cents, sells it to the retailer for 12 cents per quart and the retailer sells it to the consumer for 14 cents per quart.

The Georgia Milk Producers Confederation, Inc., is a co-operative. As Commissioner Roberts explained it, the farmers pool their milk and their expenses. Every month they meet, figure up their expenses and then divide the profits. There are some 200 members.

The confederation sells straight from the farmer to the consumer, although Duncan maintains that it does a retail business through its 22 stores scattered in various parts of Atlanta.

A customer goes to the confederation plant or one of its stores, buys his milk, pays cash and carries it home. There is no middleman. There is no distributor.

Roberts claims that the confederation can make a profit for the farmers by selling milk at 10 cents a quart. Such was the case before the Milk Control Board came into being, he said.

Delivery Costs.
The 700 or 800 trucks delivering milk daily in Atlanta are responsible for a considerable amount of the cost of milk to the consumer, he pointed out. Why, Roberts asks, can't Atlantans buy milk much as they do ice in many instances—go to the plant and get it?

Speaking for the Milk Control Board, Duncan pointed out that the independents control the majority of business in Atlanta and because they have the majority they should control the prices. If the confederation and other such co-operatives are allowed to continue, they might, in time, drive the independents out of business, provided they were able to supply the milk.

"Is it fair," he asked, "to let 10 per cent of the producers tear up the business of the other 90 per cent? Gradually the 10 per cent would absorb the entire market and there would be a monopoly."

Georgia's sun-tanned, weather-beaten farmers who bounce out of bed at the crack of dawn each morning and whistle their way to the barn to milk the cows in the frosty morning air, should be delighted to know that the city-dwelling distributors always claim to have the interests of the "poor old farmer" uppermost in their minds.

Agree on One Point.
If there was any one thing that Roberts and Duncan apparently were agreed on yesterday, it was that the farmer isn't getting enough money for his milk, but each insisted the other's organization was to blame.

"Why, some of the distributors for independent-producing farmers pay as little as 8 cents a quart for milk," Roberts asserted.

Duncan explained this by saying that the distributors could take only so much fluid milk, and that all over this amount was surplus and must be turned into cheese or something else. Prices for such milk, he explained, are naturally reduced.

According to Roberts farmers in the co-operative last month got an average of 6 cents a quart for all milk. Duncan's figures showed that the independent producers got about 5.4 cents per quart.

At first Duncan denied that the co-operative farmers had realized as much as six cents a quart for their milk last month, but a perusal of the figures showed that the confederation's milk was listed higher in butterfat than that handled by independent distributors, accounting, he said, for the difference in price.

Survey Under Way.

Despite the figures, however, Duncan insisted that "one of the principal objections of the milk board to the confederation is that it cannot pay the farmers enough for their milk."

To the charge that the milk board was keeping inefficient operators in business, Duncan said that a survey of Atlanta's milk business is now being prepared by the dairy division of the United States Department of Agriculture, and that if any inefficient operators are found the public will benefit.

A recent national survey of Fortune Magazine revealed that retail milk prices in almost every American city could be brought down as much as four cents. It was explained in the survey that the price of milk is set by the cost of home delivery, "a service which many people cannot afford." Summing up the milk situation, Roberts declared that co-operative markets are the only hope for the farmer.

RETAIL FOOD PRICES CONTINUE TO DECLINE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—(AP)—The Bureau of Labor Statistics said today that retail prices of staple foods continued to decline during the week ending November 28, although in most cities prices were from 4 to 6 per cent higher than in mid-August. The bureau's weekly survey of selected items in 13 cities showed that food prices averaged a two per cent decline. In Houston, Texas, hard dropped 10 per cent. Sugar prices, which were about 10 per cent higher than in August, either declined or remained unchanged in the surveyed cities. Little change was recorded for flour, bread, steak, chuck roast, beans and coffee.

STRICTER RULES ARE ORDERED FOR TRUCKS IN STATE

Effective January 1, All Such Vehicles Run by Motor Carrier Will Have to Be Properly Marked.

The State Public Service Commission moved yesterday to bring commercial trucks operating on Georgia highways under closer supervision. Effective January 1 every truck operated by a motor carrier must display prominently the name of the operator and must be numbered.

The commissioners explained such marking, registered with the commission office, would speed identification and would immediately make improperly marked trucks suspicious and subject to examination by inspectors.

The commission also ordered that when a truck is leased for one or more trips, it must have the name of the carrier stenciled or painted on the side and must also be given a number.

Trucks engaged solely in interstate commerce must have painted on each side the name of the operator shown in the carrier's Interstate Commerce Commission certificate and the number assigned it by the carrier.

MILK COWS URGED AS INCOME SOURCE

Dairying Is Said to Hold No. 1 Farm Opportunity for State.

Milk cows afford the No. 1 agricultural opportunity for Georgia, Professor Frederick W. Bennett, associate professor of animal husbandry at the University of Georgia, declared here yesterday. The professor said the dairy industry was a great potential source of revenue for Georgia farmers but declared the need was for cows on every farm, rather than large dairy herds on a few. Advocating six or seven cows for every farm, Bennett said that number of cows would afford surplus milk to make marketing of it profitable and at the same time afford a sufficient quantity for home consumption.

"A survey by home economics experts of the University system revealed an inadequate supply of dairy products on the tables of many farm families which may be considered above the average in the economic scale," Bennett revealed. "There are about 60,000 Georgia farms without a milk cow."

In 1938, there were 358,000 milk cows on Georgia farms. The total value of milk produced on farms was $30,846,000. The income from milk in Georgia constitutes approximately 13 per cent of the total farm income as compared with a similar figure of 20 per cent for the whole country, the dairy expert said. Georgia's milk production per inhabitant is slightly less than the national average, he said.

Moritur te Salutamus

When the final page of history of mankind has been written there will be no recording of crime more wanton and more cruel than the Russian attack on Finland, which took place yesterday.

It is necessary to turn back to dim days of primitive barbarism to find a parallel for this ruthless savagery against a helplessly outnumbored neighbor state. Utterly unprovoked, the Soviet hordes by sea and air and land are devastating the cities and the homes of a peaceful people, for no other reason than the heartless ambition of a power-drunk dictator, the millionfold murderer, Josef Stalin.

Yet it is not an altogether non-resistant victim the Russian gangster faces. Finland stands, foredoomed to national death.

No more heart-wringing spectacle has been seen in the arena of the world. Great Russia, possessing more territory, more resources already than she can conceivably use, has turned power-covetous eyes to the west, and, because little Finland stands upon her pathway to world conquest, the heavy boot of Stalinism moves to crush out Finnish life, with no more compunction than an elephant would feel in stepping on a worm.

To effect this rape of a helpless people, the Soviet government ignores its own solemnly given word, tears up the treaty it made so short a time ago. In that treaty there was a clause that neither side could abrogate it save on six months' notice. It was Tuesday of this week when Molotov, Soviet commissar for Foreign Affairs, declared the treaty renounced and it was on Thursday, less than 48 hours afterwards that the might of Russian arms was launched against the Finns. Not six months, barely twice 24 hours.

There have been apologists for Hitler, in all the occasions when he found it convenient to violate treaties made by Germany with neighbor states. There can be no shadow of apology for the action of Russia against Finland.

And, while the Soviet rains death upon the little country of the Finns, the whole world watches in disgust, tempered with apprehension for what may come next. Is this the opening move of the oft-predicted attempt, by Stalin, to conquer all of Europe? Will the Red armies, next march, with irresistible might, across Sweden and Norway? Will Soviet planes and warships shower steel upon Denmark? Will Stalin, with sardonic laughter, turn against his treaty-mate, Hitler, and add a war-weakened Germany to his loot? Will France and Britain face, in the not distant future, a power-drunk Russia, determined to crush them, too?

All these questions, and more, are pounding against the minds of men the world over, today.

There is one thing clear, and one only. If the attack on Finland is the overture to a conflict which shall see the western world aligned against the east, there is no nation, no home, no individual on earth that can remain aloof. Isolation will be impossible then. For it will be a war between the west, with its concept of human freedom, against the theory that emanates from the philosophies of the east, that man is nothing but a helpless puppet of the state. It will be conflict between western civilization, inherited from Rome and its pride in free citizenry, and the hordes of the east who have no heritage, no conception of individual liberty.

In the meantime, while the helpless world looks on, spectators in the amphitheater of the nations, Finland reels under hopeless conflict with her giant foe and proclaims, "We, who are soon to die, salute ye."

Super-Genius

Convincing proof that old timers had something "on the ball" is clearly visible in the life of Leonardo da Vinci, the great painter, sculptor and researcher of the Italian Renaissance. Visual evidence of his amazing inventive scope is brought to attention at this time in an exhibition at Milan of ancient and modern Italian inventions.

That Da Vinci merits the rating of genius is reaffirmed at this show. On display are designs for flying machines, models of parachutes, an elementary differential gear similar to that in use in today's motor cars, a shaping and cutting machine, a planing machine for copper, roller-bearing systems, cranes, musical instruments, bridges, printing presses and multiple-barrel machine guns.

Adding interest to the display is the fact that every model has been constructed from raw material available to artisans of Da Vinci's day. This is proof positive the great Italian worked not merely with his imagination, but produced inventions capable of being built and used in his own far-off day. The working models have been made to the specifications in Da Vinci's notes and writings.

Further proof of this man's remarkable talents is seen in that 14 rooms were required to house models, drawings, and writings relating to mathematics, astronomy, geology, geography, hydraulics, botany, anatomy, optics, acoustics, mechanics, flying, architecture, military art, sculpture, painting and city planning.

A Girl Raises Cotton

Felicitations are due a 16-year-old girl, Willa Nell Freeman, member of the White County 4-H Club. For the first time in the history of the 4-H Club cotton contest in Georgia, a girl took top place this year in producing the most seed cotton per acre. That young lady was Miss Freeman.

Her's was a genuine achievement. Miss Freeman produced a total of 2,902 pounds of seed cotton on one acre. The net profit derived from this production amounted to 104.69. Recognition as cotton champion of the state means for Miss Freeman a free trip to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago, December 2 to 9, her reward for her efforts in producing the seed cotton.

While the Georgia girl is to be congratulated for her fine work, sponsors of the contest idea are also due a measure of praise. In fostering competitions of this kind, the contest sponsors help immeasurably to stimulate interest in farm work among farm youth. It is a constructive move toward solving one of the state's major problems.

Games of War

The assembly at Fort Benning of approximately 15,000 troops is affording both officers and men a long-anticipated opportunity to expand studies in practical co-ordination of arms and organizations.

The war games troops, ranging from machine-gunners to military police, have settled down for winter training. The streamlined First Division of 8,000 men, moved from northern forts under command of Brigadier General Walter C. Short, is augmenting forces regularly assigned to the tank and rifle institution.

The concentration at Fort Benning is one of half a dozen ordered throughout the nation incident to plans for improvement in national defense and an immediate increase in army enlisted strength to 227,000, which was announced shortly after the outbreak of European hostilities.

That the games will teach many lessons is a foregone conclusion. Already, officers report the fire power of riflemen is virtually doubled by substitution of the new semi-automatic Garand rifle for the old bolt-action model of 1903, which was used throughout the World War.

A wondering celestial body of an oval shape still puzzles our astronomers, as the grid statisticians report all the punts accounted for.

Editorial of the Day

ECONOMIC PROBLEM.

(From The Nashville Banner.)

Every sixth state sympathizes with Ohio in the deplorable financial crisis now confronting so much of the Buckeye state shown by the closing down of schools at Toledo, distribution of only "emergency rations" to thousands of relief clients, and numerous other signs pointing to the fact that Ohio is experiencing another of those relief crises which have so frequently occurred since the start of the depression, and is scraping the bottom of the barrel.

It is a picture of abject poverty and need widespread, and nonetheless pitiable because of Ohio's relief record.

Through 1938, Ohio had received in the four years beginning with 1935 a total of federal relief, in its various forms, of $465,391,000. That was more than was received altogether by Tennessee, Alabama, Georgia and Kentucky, though these states have between them a population almost double that of Ohio.

It was almost double the amount received by Texas ($238,159,000) though Texas' population is 6,007,000, compared with Ohio's 6,707,000.

If relief grants are a measurement of need, Ohio's economic situation has been extremely acute. It was hard-hit by the depression, and the avalanche of farm troubles which paralyzed so many of its cities at the height of the Lewis orgy almost proved the coup de grace.

The present situation is caused largely by the shift of relief clients from federal to state rolls. But the need is not traceable to the present state administration, as the 1935-1938 figures, measuring needs by grants, illustrate.

The south has never presented an emergency so acute—still measuring by demands and grants. Washington has not propounded the question, and probably never will answer it, but isn't it in order to ask: "Where, really lies the Nation's Number One economic problem?"

THE CAPITAL PARADE

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

TRANQUILITY THREATENED WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—The President's desire for domestic tranquility will have its first real test on December 5, when utilities executives will begin conferences with the national policy committee on national defense power needs.

For the sake of reasonable unity in the war emergency, the President undoubtedly wants to keep the businessmen and the conservative Democrats as happy as he can. But power policy is his personal hobby. It is the last field in which the New Deal group, always opposed to business appeasement, remains active and dominant. An aggressive power policy is being urged on the President, and may tempt him so strongly that domestic tranquility will be knocked into a cocked hat.

GREAT QUESTIONS From preliminary huffings, puffings and name-calling on both sides, it is being inferred that another big row between the utilities and the government is now in progress. This is not quite the fact. Both sides anxiously desire to avoid a row. Both sides want to compromise. The trouble, which has already caused the huffings, puffings and name-calling aforementioned, arises from the feeling of each side that it is misunderstood by the other. Three great questions are at issue:

1. The Securities and Exchange Commission has a previously undisclosed plan to start stern legal proceedings against utilities holding companies which have proved slow in integrating themselves under the holding company act. The members of the SEC think they have waited long enough to get action from the utilities. A fair number of companies have been co-operative, and against these there is no complaint. The large majority, however, are thought by the SEC to be waiting for 1940 and a possible change in the political weather. This it is proposed to allow.

Two methods of procedure are open—separate suits against the recalcitrant companies, or mass suits against the entire industry, to compel it as a whole to comply with the law. So strong is SEC feeling in the matter that the second, more severe procedure now seems more popular with the commission.

2. The war has revived the President's pet project for a public power development on the St. Lawrence river. This fell through before because of opposition in the senate and the Canadians' lack of interest. It is thought that both the senate and the Canadians may now be brought round, and the project will probably be revived at the next session of congress.

3. The grid system of high-tension power lines to connect the large eastern utilities systems is what will chiefly occupy the committee meeting on Tuesday. Connecting these systems is thought vital by government experts. They want to spend $300,000,000 at once on the most essential links, and $500,000,000 more in a five to seven-year long-range program. The national power policy committee has already concluded that the money should be supplied by the government, but there is argument whether the high-tension lines, once built, would belong to the government or the utilities. Except as national defense projects, they are unprofitable.

ONLY THE PRESIDENT Each of these great questions is thoroughly confused by clamorous assertions and counter-assertions on both sides. Government men, like Harold Ickes and Benjamin V. Cohen, regard the grid system of high-tension lines as perfectly innocent and very necessary. They state that until recently it was approved by the utilities men themselves. The utilities executives, on the other hand, see in the proposed system another governmental effort to obtain an increased foothold in their business, and are accordingly deeply alarmed.

So, too, the government men say that the St. Lawrence power project will affect only one utilities company, Niagara-Hudson, and that it will be the policy to establish co-operation between the project and the company. Utilities men regard the project as a symbol—a violation of the principle that there shall be no further governmental ventures in the power business. As for the difference between the utility men's and the SEC's views of the utilities' compliance with the holding company act, it is such a broad chasm that to bridge it will be well-nigh impossible. Only the President can impose a compromise. His handling of the problem will be highly indicative.

A Captain Howell

"Inexplicable."

Ida Howell McAliley contributes another "inexplicable" anecdote from real life. This is about Captain Evan P. Howell, first president and editor-in-chief of The Constitution, father of the late Clark Howell. The story can best be told, I expect, just as written. Here it is:

"In response to your request for stories dealing with the inexplicable, I am sending one that was the experience of the late Captain Evan P. Howell.

"Before relating it, however, it may be interesting to those who are so 'Gone With the Wind' conscious, to quote a paragraph from an account of the article of Atlanta, published on its 75th anniversary:

"The 42d regiment fighting with the Georgia first state troops made a brilliant record that day. DeGress' battery had created havoc among the Confederates and the artillery of Captain Howell was ordered to charge across the field of fire and silence it. Captain Howell lost his horse but captured the battery." This encounter is shown in the Cyclorama painting.

Beginning of The Constitution.

"In an article called 'The Story of The Constitution's 60 Years,' Sam Small wrote: 'When Captain Howell, returning from the war, became city editor of The Atlanta Intelligencer, then Atlanta's only daily, giving him an acquaintance with journalism, and who had lately been solicitor general of the circuit and state senator, took active management of The Constitution, the young captain and editor-in-chief, he began a thorough reorganization of the forces. Captain Howell brought Henry Grady to The Constitution as a special writer and between them until death broke the bond, existed an attachment of tenderest affection. In the 'Life of Henry Grady' a newspaperman is quoted as saying Henry Grady makes you feel like you want to be an angel and with the angels stand and Howell makes you feel as if he were the commander of an army, waving his sword and saying 'follow me, and you would follow him to death!'

"Such was the man to whom came this remarkable, inexplicable experience. In 1861, the first year of the Civil War, being then a 21-year-old captain, he stopped in South Carolina, on his way to join his regiment in Virginia, to marry his fiancée, Miss Julia Erwin. It was necessary for him to leave immediately after the ceremony, and he did not see his bride again for six months. She continued to live with her mother, her husband paying her short visits whenever possible. On the night of September 21, 1863, having fought all day in the Battle of Chickamauga, the young captain went to sleep on the battlefield with his head pillowed on the saddle removed from his tired horse.

A Dream

As Real As Life.

"Sleeping thus he had a dream or vision as real as any waking experience. He was in his wife's room in South Carolina, but the room was not as he was accustomed to see it. The furniture being arranged differently.

"His son had just been ushered into the world, but the doctor was not the one he had expected would attend his wife. Her mother was there and servants whom he recognized.

"The dream was so vivid and realistic that, as soon as it was light enough to see, he wrote to his wife describing everything as he had seen it. Imagine his astonishment when he received her answer, telling him that he had seen things as they were. The doctor that had been engaged was unable to come, the one in the dream was actually there, as were the other persons. The furniture had been changed to the positions he had seen.

"The son born the night of that dream was the late Clark Howell, also to become editor of The Constitution."

Twenty-five

Years Ago Today.

From the news columns of Tuesday, December 1, 1914:

"Announcement that the ballot box will close at noon on Thursday and that the contest between Atlanta's fastest debutantes for the honor of being queen of the Hog and Hominy carnival will end at that hour has caused a stir among the workers in the camps of each of the candidates."

And Fifty

Years Ago.

From the news columns of Sunday, December 1, 1889:

"There are living today fifteen gentlemen, each of whom has at some time in the history of Atlanta held the position of mayor of the city."

Plane Pilots Get 'Lift'

An aviator's wife is likely to tell you that the breath of happiness is oxygen.

Colonel A. D. Tuttle, former army surgeon, and now United Air Lines medical director, told why at the recent convention of the Aero Medical Association.

Oxygen equipment was installed on the company's planes about two years ago, he said, and pilots were required to use it at altitudes of 10,000 feet or higher.

"I got this report from their wives, Colonel Tuttle stated. 'While pilots used to react nervously, feeling irritable and make a head dive for the bed and a long sleep, they now arrive feeling free and happy. Instead of a snore, the wives now hear this: 'Get on your glad rags, darling, we're stepping out tonight.'"

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

The Last NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—Patriotism has been called the last refuge of a scoundrel, and it may be added that in the case of Willie Bioff, the Chicago vicemonger, the labor movement is the last refuge of one who was convicted of being a parasite on a harlot working the back room of a Halsted street brothel. One day last week, during certain negotiations between Bioff and the Hollywood movie industry, he was confronted with his own record, which shows that he was either an employee or a proprietor of this dive and that in a specific case he received $28 which a prostitute named Rose had earned that day by entertaining 13 customers.

Bioff immediately raised a cry that his past had been raked up for no other purpose than to discredit him as representative of the so-called Stage Hands' Union and thus deprive the underpaid rank and file of an increase in wages. The fact is that the rank and file never elected Bioff to represent them. He muscled into the job as bodyguard and personal representative of George E. Browne, also of Chicago, the union president, who knew his record and who two years ago personally requested that nothing more be said about it in print. Browne's reasons for this request are apparent now.

Bioff then owed and still owes all but eight days of a sentence of six months in the Chicago Bridewell for preying on a prostitute. I knew then that Bioff was a Chicago underworld character with a record of numerous arrests, but did not have proof of the conviction for pandering, and Browne explained that Willie, like many other neighborhood boys in Chicago, had merely been picked up by the police now and again and let go. That is not the case, however. Bioff was in the penitentiary for 24 years old when he was convicted of pandering, and pandering is no such amiable mischief as soaping windows on Halloween or throwing snowballs.

Bioff Accuses. Bioff further says that Joseph Schenck, president of the Producers' Association, and his associates on the employers' side of the wage dispute, were responsible for the expose, and accuses me of "running interference" for my "plutocratic friends in Hollywood," who are attacking him because he is "fighting for the little fellows in the studios, the workmen who are fortunate to average $900 a year."

I met Schenck once, about two years ago, when I called at his office to discuss Bioff. Schenck refused to talk about him. I met Sam Goldwyn once about the same time, but did not discuss the labor problem of the studios. I met another producer named Harry Cohen, who made me an offer. He said that if I would write some scenarios he would read them. Then, if he liked them, he would buy them. We did no business. I met Walt Disney then and met him again two weeks ago. He is a personal friend. On this last trip I met no producers, but did see Gene Fowler, James K. McGuinness, Whitney Bolton and John McLean, writers; Bill Fields, the great tragedian, and Greg La Cava and Leo McCarey, directors. I own no stock in any movie company, never have sold a scenario, never have worked for any movie company except one four weeks' term as publicity writer about 1921 for a promoter who was producing a Babe Ruth film called "Headin' Home," and, on this recent trip, I was accused by one with Bureau Pitts, the prosecutor of Los Angeles county, who had no information to offer.

All

None of the individuals here mentioned asked me to run the initiative and responsibility were all my own. Carey McWilliams, a radical Laborite, did have a few words to say about Bioff and his union, but McWilliams is CIO and the CIO in California is dominated by its Communist minorities, so it is not likely that I would feel any desire to run interference for him.

Pegler might turn his truculent pen to better advantage by presenting the cause of the Hollywood workmen, who, employed in an industry of fabulous wealth, are barely able to make a livelihood," says Bioff's statement.

And I would suggest that Bioff himself has found fabulous wealth in the labor racket representing those men who are barely able to make a livelihood. So much has been said about an item of $100,000 cash which Bioff received from a representative of the union, that it is not surprising that the nobly altruistic Chicago vicemonger owes a duty to himself and to the "little fellows" for whom he speaks so touchingly, to explain all and explain well. Later it was called a loan. Now I'll tell one.

Labor, the "little fellows," suffer from racketeering in the unions, from exploitation and sell-outs by muscle men of the Chicago type as well as from the stupidity and greed of employers.

Bioff's own union, for example, in one local, had the effrontery to demand of American citizens applying for membership an initiation fee of $3,000, plus an income tax.

Police Make a Raid.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — Police headquarters received a complaint a crap game was going on in broad daylight on a downtown corner.

Lieutenant Opal Hodges and the patrolman on the beat hurried to the corner and, sure enough, there was a ring of eight or 10 youths, ranging from 18 to 25, so intent on the game they didn't notice the arrival of officers.

"What's going on here?" Lieutenant Hodges asked, and the group drifted apart, shamefacedly. The boys were playing jacks.

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MCGILL.

TO CARROLLTON TONIGHT Diversion for this particular evening may be found in Carrollton, Georgia, at the meeting of the Georgia Academy of Social Sciences.

The drive is pleasant, the country beautiful. There are pumpkins still in the field, opulent and golden; there are the leaves turning into their deeper autumn hues and at journey's end, Carrollton is worth re-visiting. Or visiting.

At the Academy meeting Dr. Edwin R. Embree, of the Rosenwald Fund, will speak. The Rosenwald Fund has devoted its money and intelligence of its leaders to education in the south, chiefly rural education.

It was the Rosenwald Fund which first began to delve into conditions in the south. It has spent considerable money on negro education. The negro contributes most of the south's homicides. Yet any person interested enough to investigate the cases of homicide will find them to be in direct ratio to the poverty and ignorance of those involved.

Dr. Embree is one of the nation's most forthright and intelligent men. The contribution of the Fund to the south would not be measured in such great proportions were it not for his vision and industry.

I assume he will discuss the experiment at West Georgia College at Carrollton, which experiment is the most significant in the entire university system.

CROPS OF ECUADOR Dr. Embree, who is southern born, learned, in rural schools, to recite the crops and produce of foreign countries. They would be better perfect, say, on Ecuador, and know nothing at all about the crops and produce of their own state.

Every man who has gone about in Georgia, talking and listening, has had many farm boys tell them that they, the farm boys, were prepared at high school for everything except going back to the farm and meeting some of its problems.

This sort of thing came to Dr. Embree and to his staff. They resolved on an experiment. Money was set aside from the Fund and the co-operation of the board of regents obtained.

There was begun at West Georgia College the training of rural teachers for the rural job. The rural teacher cannot sit on his bench and be content with teaching arithmetic, geography and the ordinary subjects as proscribed by the board.

The rural teacher hears all the woes and the joys. He or she comes to know individual families and their problems. The rural teacher, to be a real teacher, must occupy a place in the community long after the school has closed for the day.

The rural school teacher must, in theory, teach every waking hour. His little schoolhouse must become a source of light for young and old.

That was the idea as conceived by Dr. Embree. He knew that it was unfair to the teachers themselves to expect them, with one set system of training, be fitted for rural work.

THE TRAINING SCHOOLS So, at West Georgia College was set up the training. Teachers are being trained in the problems they will encounter when they take over the jobs in their country schools.

Problems of tenancy, sharecropping, poor industrial conditions, soil conservation, of marketing, of home-making—all these, and more, are being studied, not in the classroom, but in the field. Georgia spends $41 for each child's education. New York state spends $141.

Dr. Embree believes the economic level of the south will be raised when the economic level of the lower third, white and black, is raised. Any plan which contemplates raising merely the lot of the white section of rural Georgia is doomed. The level, as a whole, must be raised.

Dr. Embree believes, and properly so, this cannot be done until the education of the state offers in the rural communities fits the needs of those communities.

Therefore, the Rosenwald Fund is contributing money to make possible this sort of teaching. When it has been done the economic worth of the south will increase with tremendous speed. Indeed, it will increase as this education is given, growing as it grows.

So, it ought to be interesting in Carrollton tonight. I am informed the students at West Georgia College have cleaned up their campus and the buildings until not a straw or a match may be found. It glitters and glitters.

The meeting will be well worth attending. To those non-members in Atlanta, the evening may be recommended as one of interest—if, of course, one is interested in Georgia.

The Test of a Fisherman Is the Ability to Get Them Where They Are Scarce

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

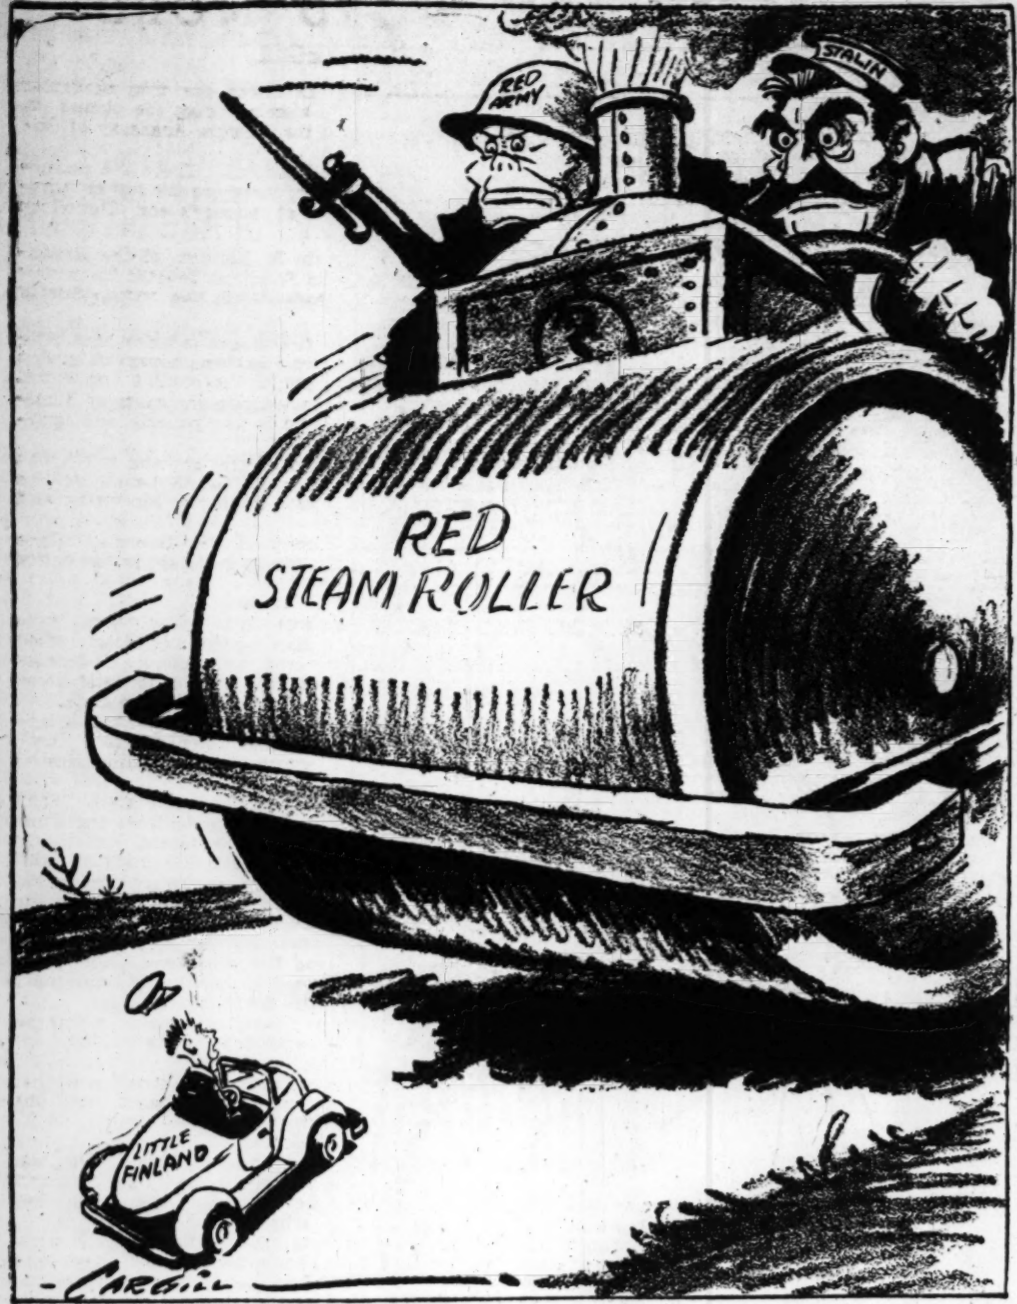

For the first time in our history, the people of America must do some serious thinking to save themselves.

We are like a prodigal heir who has wasted most of his estate and now must get to work or lose the rest.

Our capitalistic-democratic system has worked for a century and a half because we had natural advantages that made it work in spite of folly and abuse and neglect.

Glance back over our history and you will see that we never have had a national plan of co-operation to make our system work well. Each has done as he pleased, leaving the government to professional politicians, and yet we thrived because we had a continent to loot and a vast construction job to complete.

When times got hard in a settled region, there was more land farther west. The mere holding of land was good business, for prices always went up. The virgin soil produced big crops without fertilizers, and there were orchards to plant; there were forests to cut down, railroads to build, mines to open.

Daladier Wins Decisively In Extending Decree Power

Final Vote of Confidence in Government by Chamber of Deputies Is 318 to 175 as Premier Twice Stakes Life of Present Regime.

PARIS, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Premier Daladier won decisively tonight an extension of his decree powers to rule France for the duration of the war with Germany.

The final vote of confidence in his government by the chamber of deputies was 318 to 175. Overriding Socialist opposition, Daladier twice staked the life of his government in swift parliamentary moves.

He agreed to call parliament every month to ratify his decrees—if parliament happened to be in session. Otherwise, he refused.

"Can Act in Secret," he said, "which can act rapidly and in secret."

"I cannot continue my task unless the powers I ask are voted."

On the final vote and on an earlier finance committee amendment which sought to force him to summon parliament every month regardless of whether it was in session, Daladier staked the life of his government and won both times.

The debate was carried on behind chamber windows blacked-out against the possibility of air raids.

The day-long struggle forced the premier to postpone a nationwide broadcast until tomorrow at 8 p. m. (2 p. m., Atlanta time).

Blum Refuses.

Former Socialist Premier Leon Blum, who led the opposition, declared, "I do not intend to play politics."

but I refuse to accept the text of a law that would transfer totalitarian powers into the hands of the government without any control by the chambers."

Daladier's first vote of confidence was on rejection of the finance committee amendment. The chamber voted it down, 309 to 188.

Before Daladier had won another contest by obtaining approval of the army committee for his demand for decree powers.

One More Step In Red Conquest

By The Associated Press. Soviet Russia's invasion of Finland is one more phase in her apparent program to re-establish domination over the 277,148 square miles of territory stripped from her after the World War.

Here is what she lost in the war settlements:

Finland	133,000 square miles
Estonia	16,955 square miles
Latvia	24,400 square miles
Lithuania	36,500 square miles
Poland	49,150 square miles
Bessarabia (to Rumania)	17,143 square miles

Before the Finnish invasion, here is what she regained in the brief span of 90 days:

From Poland, western Ukraine and White Russia, a total of 71,756 square miles; her acquisition of 22,606 square miles more than she lost is explained by the fact that some of the territory formerly belonged to Austria-Hungary. Germany, however, got a strip of once-Russian territory in central Poland including Warsaw.

Mutual assistance pacts with Estonia, Lithuania and Latvia, along with military and naval bases, making the three Baltic states her virtual protectorates.

Conquest of Finland would leave only Bessarabia, and a German-occupied strip in Poland still separated from Russia as she was in 1914.

CIVILIZATION AT NEW LOW, HOOVER DECLARES

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 30.—(UP)—Civilization struck a "new low" with the Communist attack on peaceful Finland, which carried the world "back to the morals and butchery of Ghengis Khan," former President Herbert Hoover said tonight.

The only living ex-President of the United States said "Even if Finland falls the day will come when it will rise again, for the force of righteousness are not dead in the world."

Hoover, at a press conference, reviewed his work in helping to gain recognition for Finland with the "Big Four"—Lloyd George, Orlando, Clemenceau and Wilson—at Paris following the World War.

At the time he was supervising American relief activities in Finland and other war-torn European countries.

"Eighteen months ago I visited Finland as the guest of the nation," he said. "They wished to express their appreciation and affection to the American people. Fifty thousand people came in one day alone to salute the American flag."

Asked what effects the Soviet attack might have in the United States, he replied: "I don't see what we can do now. No one is in a position for support. We must wait upon developments."

MUST EXPEL "ISMS," VANDENBERG SAYS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Senator Vandenberg, Republican, Michigan, said tonight that what had happened in Poland and Finland "leaves us with no rational alternative except to drive every trace of Communism and Nazism out of the United States."

"Communism has demonstrated its treachery, its brutality and its barbarism in Finland precisely as Nazism demonstrated these bestial qualities in Poland," he said. "We cannot police Europe. But we can and must police America."

RUSSIAN AGGRESSION ASSAILED BY COOPER

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Nov. 30.—(AP)—Alfred Duff Cooper, former first lord of the British admiralty, tonight described Russia's invasion of Finland as the "most aggressive act ever perpetrated in modern civilization."

In an address at Union College, he said Russians are "relaxing into the barbarism out of which they have hardly emerged," and added: "No civilian man loving liberty could go to bed tonight without cursing Stalin."

"INHUMAN INVASION," NEELY CHARGES

FAIRMONT, W. Va., Nov. 30.—(AP)—Senator M. M. Neely, Democrat, West Virginia, tonight characterized Russia's attack on Finland as an "inhuman invasion" in flagrant violation of international law, and expressed the hope that the United States in protest "will immediately sever diplomatic relations with the Soviet Union."

COLOMBIA'S PRESIDENT SYMPATHIZES WITH FINNS

BOGOTA, Colombia, Nov. 30.—(UP)—President Eduardo Santos today cabled President Kysto Kallio, of Finland, expressing sympathy for the Nordic republic's invasion by Russia.

It was reported authoritatively that this government was preparing a protest against the invasion.

MUSICIAN SIBELIUS IS REPORTED KILLED

Rumored Slain in Air Raid, But Truth Cannot Be Ascertained.

STOCKHOLM, (Friday) Dec. 1. (UP)—The newspaper Dagen Nyheter today printed an unconfirmed rumor that Jan Sibelius, famous Finnish composer, had been killed in yesterday's Soviet raids on Helsinki. The newspaper said it had been impossible to check the rumor.

It was suggested that Sibelius' name might have been confused with that of Axel Solander, consul general in New York in 1919-1922, who was wounded severely in the Helsinki aerial bombardment.

CONDUCTOR INVITES SIBELIUS TO U. S.

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 30.—(UP)—Werner Janssen, the symphony orchestra conductor, sought tonight to persuade Jan Sibelius to flee his war-ravaged Finland and come here to live.

Whether Sibelius, Finland's famed composer, even received his cablegram Janssen could not determine. Janssen sent his invitation before Russian troops invaded Finland. Cable company officials tonight said it virtually was impossible to forward another message or to obtain a reply now.

Sibelius, perhaps most noted for his "Finlandia," called Janssen the greatest conductor of his music. Janssen asked the composer to make his home with him and Mrs. Janssen, the former Ann Harding of the screen.

Gleaming, Ultra-Modern Helsinki Is Famed as 'White City of North'

New Architecture Considered Thoroughly Symbolic of Sturdy Complexion of Country, Yet Reminders of Czars Are Found Here and There.

By The Associated Press. Finland's capital, impressive to travelers as the "White City of the North," is one of the most modern cities in Europe. It has a population of 300,000.

Its new architecture—ultra-modern and gleaming white—is considered thoroughly symbolic of the sturdy complexion of the country. Yet sprinkled here and there are architectural reminders of the years during which Finland was a grand duchy of imperial Russia under the Czars.

One of the newest and most modern of Helsinki's buildings is the general post office, a great white structure of modern lines, built a year ago.

The great railway station, called the most modern in Europe, was built on the design of Eliel Saarinen, Finland's foremost architect, who is known in the United States for taking second prize in the competition for a design for the Chicago Tribune building.

Saarienen now is in the United States, teaching at the Cranbrook Academy of Arts, Bloomfield Hills, Mich.

Small Air Fleet HANDICAPS FINNS

Small Nation Has Only 150 Planes to Battle Russia's 7,000.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—(AP) Finland has only a comparative handful of warplanes to oppose the invading Russian air fleet, which is one of Europe's largest.

The Finns are credited in semi-official data here with only about 150 military aircraft of all types, to more than 7,000 Red army craft. The Finnish force included 50 seaplanes. Other aircraft were on order in the United States.

At sea, however, the Finns have several ships conceivably able to trouble the Russian navy.

These include two heavily armed coast defense ships, five small but modern submarines, and seven or more fast motor torpedo boats.

The larger Soviet navy in the Baltic is headed by the 25-year-old battleships Marat and Revolutia, armed with 12-inch guns, whereas the Finns' coast defense ships Vainamoinen and Ilmarinen have 10-inch guns.

Information here is that the Soviet air fleet of more than 7,000 planes is the world's third in size, trailing only the German and British forces in numbers. The planes are known to be less modern, however, than those of other leading powers.

One authority credits Russia with 5,550 operating planes, aside from reserves. Of these, half are believed to be more than three years old. The Red army air force is reported to be divided into 140 heavy bombing squadrons, 60 light bomber squadrons, 460 fighter squadrons, and 110 reconnaissance and miscellaneous squadrons.

The Russian air force, like the navy, must be divided among several fronts. The Soviet maintains sea forces in the Black sea and in the distant north Pacific, as well as in the Baltic.

GEORGE, RUSSELL CONDEMN INVASION

'Utter Disregard for World Opinion,' Says Senior Senator.

Senator George, senior senator from Georgia, over the long-distance telephone from Bainbridge last night, commented upon the Russo-Finnish situation as follows:

"It is an international outrage and shows the utter disregard by Russia for world public opinion. The whole thing is to be condemned and deplored."

Other members of the Georgia congressional delegation also expressed their criticism of the Russian invasion of Finland.

Senator Russell, reached at his home in Winder said he had read of the invasion "with profound sorrow."

"Of all the terrible incidents this year, this is the most tragic," he added. "The Finnish people undoubtedly have the sympathy of the entire world."

Malcolm Tarver, Dalton, veteran representative of the seventh district in the house of representatives, described the invasion as "of the utmost brutality."

"Like other European troubles," he said, "it is not something that calls for any affirmative action on the part of the United States."

"Rather it is something that the people of Finland and Russia must work out for themselves."

Congressman Stephen Pace, of Americus, declared:

"From all accounts, the attack on Finland apparently was without any justification whatever. This gives us an excellent idea of what we might expect of Communism."

B. Frank Wheelchel, of Gainesville, added last night: "The situation on the Finnish border is the most awful thing to imagine but at the same time the United States should do nothing that would involve us in war."

CIVILIANS, DAZED BY DEATH RAIN, FLEE BLAZING HELSINKI

FLAMING SKYLINE OF BLASTED CITY VISIBLE FOR MILES

Women, Children Jam Main Railroad Station, But a Shortage of Trains Impedes Evacuation.

By NORMAN B. DEUEL.
HELSINKI, Nov. 30.—(UP)—(By Telephone to Copenhagen)—Women and children dazed by the horror suddenly heaped upon them from the skies, fled tonight from this bomb-torn city lighted only by burning homes and public buildings.

Civilians were in full flight from Helsinki but the evacuation was impeded by a shortage of trains, due to frantic rushing of army recruits and conscripts to the frontiers.

Finland, at war against an enemy 50 times its size and strength, faced her second fight for independent existence in 22 years with calm. There was no hysteria. Many seemed stupefied.

Station Crowded.
The main railroad station, target of the bombs of three terrific bombardments by the Russian air force during the day, was crowded with women and children patiently awaiting trains to take them from the city.

On the faces of some was written fear—perhaps the knowledge that the big bombers might come sweeping over again before they could escape.

The city was dark, except for the blazing buildings. The Russian bombers had shattered a big hydro-electric plant during an attack on Irmata 65 miles north of the Karelian frontier.

There was no need for the people of Helsinki to carry out their carefully rehearsed black-out against air raids tonight because the blazing skyline was visible for miles.

Today began as a normal one in this capital city on the Gulf of Finland, although everyone knew that Russia had broken off diplomatic relations and that almost anything might happen.

The weather was brisk and clear and, for the first time in a week, the streets were filled with early shoppers.

Without Warning.
Then, without warning, the air raid sirens began shrieking at 9:25 a. m.

People halted and looked up, questioning.

Out of the murky sky came six big two-motor bombers, droning toward the airport.

Five bombs fell on the airfield but did little damage.

The raid on Helsinki came in midafternoon. Air raid warnings moved quickly through the streets, wearing steel helmets and gas masks slung from their shoulders.

They handled traffic and directed people to shelters.

As the first bomb struck I was called to the telephone, where the operator said coolly that there was an urgent call from Copenhagen.

I started talking and another bomb fell. It exploded so powerfully that I was knocked to the floor.

The explosions increased and the Finnish anti-aircraft guns began to fire continuously into the sky.

Among the dozen bombs which fell two set off gigantic blasts. I looked out my hotel window and saw three burning buildings.

Tonight there are 20 houses burning and Finns listen with bitter expletives to Moscow radio announcements which deny that anything has happened in Helsinki.

Tons of Explosives.

The planes roared high in the sky and if they struck at the railroad station their aim was poor. Tons of high explosives fell in the center of the city.

Observers said the bombs were of the "thermite" type, which penetrate buildings and sometimes are incendiary.

Later more bombs dropped on the city, 20 or 30 in all. The people had heard air raid warnings earlier in the day and shook off their first fear of attack. When the fury was released on them they were dazed.

The bombardment paralyzed traffic in the center of the city. Street car service was disrupted. Ambulances raced to the scenes of wreckage and fire trucks clattered to burning buildings. Men dug in the wreckage for bodies.

Planes flashed in and out of cloudbanks and scores of residents, who seemed to be stupefied, stood in the streets and watched them even as they dropped their bombs.

The Torni hotel, in which the United Press has its offices, is three blocks from the railroad station, likely target of the bombers.

Its huge glass dome toppled into the lobby, shattered by concussion of bombs which fell nearby.

Helsinki, capital of Finland, as it looked before wave of Russian heavy-duty bombers roared overhead yesterday and dropped their incendiary "eggs." Portions of the city burned throughout the night. One immediate result of the bombings, Copenhagen dispatches said, was the tentative decision of the Finns to move the seat of their government to Nikolainkaupunki (Vaasa), a western port on the Gulf of Bothnia.

Another victim of the Russians, in their whirlwind war from the skies yesterday, was the Finnish city of Viipuri. Shown above is the market place. Voluntary evacuation of civilians was begun in the city October 10, when Russia started massing her troops on the Finns' border. The round tower shown is a remnant of the city's fortifications during the Middle Ages.

FINNISH CABINET FORCED TO RESIGN

ther air raids pending such contact.

Although no announcement was made regarding a new government, it was believed a new cabinet would be formed before tonight.

Mentioned as probable new premier was Vaino Tanner, finance minister in the old cabinet, who took part in the unsuccessful conferences in Moscow.

(The resignation was seen in some circles as a move for an armistice. Reports were received in Copenhagen that Tanner probably would attempt to restore diplomatic relations with Moscow and would seek cessation of hostilities.)

Another reason for the resignation, a government spokesman said, was a desire to bring into the government representatives of all parties.

Word of the government's resignation, which came less than 24 hours after the first Red troops crossed the border, was forwarded to Moscow by a representative of the American legation. It was expected the American embassy would communicate it to the Kremlin.

Before the cabinet resigned, Russian troops were marching into Finland at points along the 800-mile frontier from the Isthmus of Karelia, near Leningrad, to Finland's narrow corridor on the Arctic ocean, 200 miles above the Arctic circle.

200 Persons Killed.
The Russian air force bombed Helsinki, setting fire to buildings in the southwestern section of the capital. Newspapers here estimated the dead at between 100 and 200 persons.

(After the extraordinary session of parliament last night, the Finnish cabinet decided tentatively to move the seat of government to Nikolainkaupunki (Vaasa), a western Finnish port on the Gulf of Bothnia, it was stated in advices received in Copenhagen.)

(A Finnish defense ministry broadcast, heard in London, said Russian troops "were all repulsed this afternoon. There was lively artillery fire on the border and two Russian tanks were destroyed.")

(Another broadcast heard in London, from Moscow, announced the beginning of hostilities against Finland and said the Soviets began to march after three new border incidents Thursday morning.)

The United States legation staff, and those of other foreign powers moved last night from Helsinki to Grankulla, a western suburb.

The Red fleet steamed westward in the Gulf of Finland and seized the Finnish island of Seiskari and

Proud Finns Perfect Their Own Culture

By The Associated Press.

Helsinki, the Finnish name for the capital of Finland, has replaced Helsinki, the Swedish name, with the general spread of the Finnish language and culture in Finland.

Finland was a dependency of Sweden for 500 years, and Swedish culture prevailed.

It is only in relatively recent years that the Finns' own culture has been predominant.

began shelling Viipuri (Viborg) and other coastal cities and towns.

City Set Aflame.
Viipuri, a city of 75,000 population, was, like Helsinki, set afire by repeated bombing attacks from the air.

The Russian air fleet made its first appearance over the capital at 9:20 a. m. (1:20 a. m. Atlanta time) and returned several times during the day. The attacks began on the Malmi airport on the outskirts but spread to the city proper.

By nightfall the sky over southwestern Helsinki was red with the glow of burning buildings. Several apartment houses and the Helsinki Institute of Technology were blasted apart by the bombs.

Several bodies were recovered in the streets.

(The Danish radio broadcast a Finnish news agency report that 200 persons had been killed in a raid at 7 p. m. (11 a. m. Atlanta time).)

The bombing during the day appeared to have been aimed at the central railway station and the post office but the bombs missed both those marks. Tonight a third of the city was strewn with broken window glass.

Erkko Talks To U. S.
Foreign Minister Eljas Erkko was scheduled tonight to speak to the United States but was refused relay through Germany. Finally he spoke on a relay through Stockholm and Geneva.

"Once and for all I wish to say in all solemnity that Finland hasn't wanted war, has no desire to be a threat to anyone and has no desire to become the instrument of a third power," he said.

"Finland intended to live in peace. Despite all our efforts we are the victims of an attack. All that is left for us to do is to defend our liberty, our existence with all the means at our disposal."

"Despite all this we have not resorted to war blindly but we remain ready to work for a solution of the dispute by conciliation."

"I send to the American people the warm greetings of democratic little Finland in the hour of our adversity and thank you for all you have done for us and also for the support your government has given us in so many ways."

The invasion, which terminated abruptly an exchange of notes between the two countries over "border incidents" Moscow had reported, spurred the little republic to action.

State of War Is Declared.
President Kyoesti Kallio issued a decree "for defense and for maintenance of law and order in the Finnish republic, hereby declared in a state of war."

Foreign Minister Eljas Erkko, terming the attack "the purest aggression imaginable," said "we have no other way now than to try to defend ourselves with all the means at our disposal."

"As for the reason for the attack," Erkko said, "the pretext was used that we invaded Russian territory and our troops threatened Leningrad. We haven't done anything of the kind."

Anti-aircraft batteries fought back at the invading planes and ten were reported to have been shot down by nightfall, two of them in the capital.

As air raid sirens sounded in the capital, air defense guards quickly and calmly took their stations atop high buildings and scanned the skies. In the streets they helped civilians find shelters.

The government urged residents to leave the city, but evacuation still was not compulsory.

Capital Blacked Out.
Tonight the capital was completely blacked out, but the blazing buildings in the southwestern section, covering about twelve blocks, provided a beacon for possible enemy attackers and the population steered itself for new onslaughts.

Meanwhile buses were running on full schedule and one train was scheduled to leave westward loaded with people hoping to reach Stockholm safely.

All gas mains in Helsinki were shut off as a precaution against fire.

Hospital Struck.
While Russian bombing planes attacked Helsinki, Viipuri and the industrial city of Ensoe, where a hospital was struck, infantry forces pushed into Finland behind barages of heavy artillery fire.

On the Isthmus of Karelia, where the frontier is about 15 miles north of Leningrad, Russian troops advanced along the entire 40-mile width of the isthmus from the Gulf of Finland to Lake Ladoga.

About 200 miles to the north, above Lake Ladoga, they cut off Suojarvi, in a strategic section of the border.

About 600 miles still further north, at the extreme tip of Finland on her narrow corridor to the Arctic ocean west of Murmansk, Russia, the Soviet troops cut off the so-called fishermen's peninsula near the Finnish harbor of Petsamo.

(A dispatch from Kirkenes, in far northern Norway, said bombing planes took part in this advance, partly destroying several Finnish towns in this section and carrying the air attack to the Norwegian border.)

After the first air raid on Helsinki the attacking planes dropped handbills printed in Finnish saying:

"You know we have food. You know we have bread. Why hunger?"

After the first thunder of bursting bombs died away, this correspondent heard, as the next sound, a chorus of singing. It was from soldiers marching in the capital's streets.

FINNS' DEBT TO U. S. TOTALS $8,233,157

Only Nation Which Has Made War Payments on Schedule.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Finland's debt to the United States amounted to $8,233,157.56 on November 15. The nation has made payments totaling $5,656,598.

The money was borrowed to finance purchases in this country, mainly for foodstuffs. The borrowing began in 1919.

The Finns, the only nation which has paid its war debt to the United States on schedule, have settled $880,668 of their funded debt's principal and have made interest payments on that debt amounting to $4,466,315. On the unfunded debt they have paid $309,315, which is all interest.

The total Finnish national debt is $87,000,000, of which 20 per cent represents foreign debts.

diate defense activity. Civilians were calm. There was no panic as they appeared in the streets with gas masks over their shoulders.

Soon after the first bombing of Helsinki a foreign office spokesman told newspapermen:

"It has started; the war is on."

Bombs spoke after that.

Finns Have Hopes.
(Finns hoped that, with a new regime which might be looked upon favorably by Moscow, the invitation and shattering attacks by land, sea and air might be halted.)

(There was speculation that the new government might be headed by Finance Minister V. A. Tanner, who, with former Premier Juhani K. Paasikivi, handled the futile attempts in Moscow to reach a compromise settlement of Russia's demands. Some reports indicated that Tanner was trying to reach the Kremlin in Moscow—all communication lines were down—to plead with the Soviet leaders to halt the bombardment of Finnish cities and towns from the air.)

(Officials refused to confirm these reports or admit that a Russian ultimatum had been served.)

(In this connection, however, a government spokesman had said only a short while before the government's resignation that it had no intention of quitting.)

To Call Mannerheim.
(Reports were heard that General Baron Karl Gustav Mannerheim, Finland's hero, might be asked to form a quasi-dictatorship. Many observers believed this was doubtful, however, inasmuch as a move of that kind would only serve to whip up even greater Soviet anger.)

(The 72-year-old Mannerheim, generalissimo of Finland's defense, was a White Russian officer under the Czar and in 1918 he led his people to victory over the Bolsheviks to secure Finland's new independence.)

(Another possibility for the premiership was M. Kivimäki, leader of the peasants' party and a former premier. (Finnish authorities, accusing Russia of merciless aerial attacks on civilian populations, said incendiary bombs had been used against Helsinki, Viborg and other cities.)

(Hundreds of women and children, stunned by the lightning blows from the air, fled from the already partially-evacuated city. The evacuation of Abo (Turku), Viborg and other cities also was under way. Civilians fled from the Petsamo area westward across the Swedish border in the north.)

Heaviest Battle.
(Today's high command communiqué said one of the heaviest artillery battles was fought at Kaunasetae on the eastern frontier and two Russian tanks were destroyed north of Lake Ladoga.)

(The only aerial bombings, it was alleged, were against civilian populations. Hango was bombed twice by Red army planes, at 11:30 a. m. when four planes appeared and at 2:20 p. m. by eight planes.)

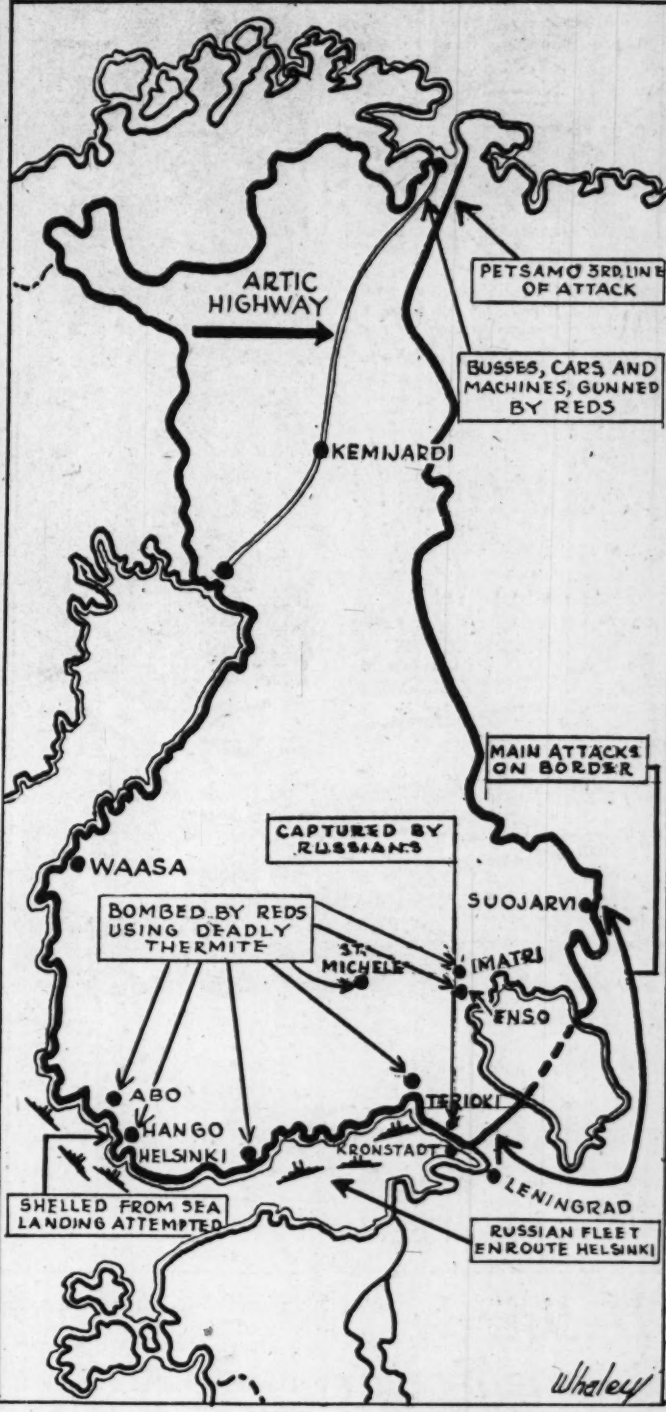

The bombs of the first raid fell into the sea and those of the second raid smashed into the Hango suburbs, killing two or three persons and wounding many others.

(Premier Aimo Cajander, object of bitter Soviet attacks for the past week, instructed General Baron Mannerheim to bring the country under full mobilization, meaning that one out of every seven of Finland's 3,800,000 persons would be available to fight.)

(The 72-year-old Mannerheim, called "the white general," thus was called again to lead his country's defense in an hour of need as he was in 1918 when he led a hurriedly collected army of Finns to victory in the war of independence against the Bolsheviks.)

(Mannerheim belongs to one of the foremost noble families of Finland and, when the country belonged to Czarist Russia, he served for more than 30 years in the imperial Russian army, in the Russo-Japanese war and in the World War.)

(Finnish dispatches said that the Russians troops invading the Suojarvi district had found a "no man's land" because the Finns had withdrawn. The area is not important to the military defense of the country, it was pointed out.)

By land, sea and air Russia smashed at Finland yesterday. These are the major events of the day limited across the map of the little nation. Land forces advanced a bare 10 miles on the Karelian peninsula to the south, but planes ranged far and wide, carrying death and destruction to the most innocent in the wide reaches. Warships from new Baltic bases hammered at Hango. Another flotilla was reported en route to the seaport capital, Helsinki.

England Condemns Russia But Can Offer Finns No Aid

Chamberlain Calls Attack by Soviet Union 'Unjustified'; British Said Too Busy With Own War To Give Assistance to Baltic Republic.

By ROBERT BUNNELLE.

LONDON, Nov. 30.—(P)—Parliament resounded today with condemnations of Soviet Russia's invasion of Finland but the indications were that Britain, preoccupied with her own war against Germany could do nothing to help the little Baltic republic.

Prime Minister Chamberlain told a sympathetic house of commons that the government regarded as unjustified "this fresh attack on a small, independent nation which must result in fresh suffering and loss."

Authoritative sources said, however, that Britain had no obligation to help Finland, and that even if she wanted to, she would be unable to do so because of Finland's position in the Baltic.

Called Unnecessary.
Britain, Chamberlain asserted, "found it difficult to believe that strategic measures of such scope and importance as were suggested should have been considered necessary to protect the Soviet Union against a country as small as Finland."

Members of parliament cheered this and other statements indicating strong sympathy with Finland. British diplomatic circles expressed interest "in the similarity of the methods applied in Finland and Poland."

The Finnish minister to London called the invasion "a straightforward case of aggression" and added that it was "obvious that Russia wanted to dominate Finland."

News Headlined.
The British press headlined the Soviet-Finnish war above their own conflict in which Britain suffered another loss at sea with the sinking of the 2,730-ton steamer Sheaf Crest by a mine off the southeastern coast. Twenty-nine survivors, many of them injured, were rescued.

In air warfare, two British planes attacked and downed a German Dornier seaplane over the North Sea yesterday, the air ministry announced, while today a German plane was engaged by two British fighters north of the Firth of Forth but the German ship escaped.

Chamberlain told the House the government welcomed warmly the United States' willingness to lend her good offices in settling the Russian-Finnish dispute, since in the British government's opinion "the questions at issue between Finland and the Soviet Union are not of a nature to justify a resort to war-like measures."

usually would be forced to invoke the neutrality law.

Procope asserted that his country has declared a state of siege in order to offer more effective resistance. He added that the Soviet attack would be resisted to the utmost of Finland's ability.

A statement by Secretary Hull, yesterday, making available this nation's good offices in effecting a peaceful solution of the dispute, was delivered in Moscow after Soviet bombing planes already were roaring over Helsinki.

Vladimir Potemkin, vice commissar for foreign affairs, expressed the view that there was no occasion for good offices. He did not comment further, and it was assumed Hull's declaration would be directed to higher officials. In Finland, Foreign Minister Eljas Erkko said his country would welcome the exercise of good offices.

Commenting on the Russian attack, Senator Clark, Democrat, Idaho, said: "I think it is outrageous. Finland is the only friend we have in Europe—it is certainly the only nation that has kept its promise to pay back the money it borrowed. The Russian invasion constitutes an unjustified demonstration of brute force."

A report from H. F. Arthur Schoenfeld, American minister to Helsinki, said that some buildings were burning within three blocks of the legation.

Schoenfeld cabled that he had opened an emergency office at the Badgrankulla hotel, not far from Helsinki.

Personnel of the American legation is being evacuated to various places in the vicinity of the hotel, Schoenfeld reported.

The State Department said Schoenfeld would return to Helsinki tomorrow morning. It added that so far as the American legation at Helsinki was aware, there had been no American casualties in the Russian air raids.

The Russian planes made an attack in the immediate vicinity of the American legation about 3 p. m., Finnish time, today.

F. D. R. MAKES PLEA TO SPARE CIVILIANS

Asks Pledge That Finns, Reds Won't Bomb Populations From Air.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—(Friday)—(P)—President Roosevelt called on Russia and Finland today to pledge that they would not resort to the "inhuman barbarism" of bombing civilian populations from the air.

The President's message, delivered by American diplomatic representatives in Moscow and Helsinki, came after reports of a Russian air bombardment of Helsinki. It was almost identical with messages dispatched recently to Germany, Great Britain and France.

President's Appeal.
The President said:

"The ruthless bombing from the air of civilians in unfortified centers of population during the course of hostilities which have raged in various quarters of the earth during the past few years—which has resulted in the maiming and in the death of thousands of defenseless men, women and children—has sickened the hearts of every civilized man and woman, and has profoundly shocked the conscience of humanity."

"If resort is had to this form of inhuman barbarism during the period of the tragic conflagration with which the world is now confronted, hundreds of thousands of innocent human beings who are not even remotely participating in hostilities, will lose their lives."

"I am therefore addressing this appeal to the Soviet government (Finnish government in the message to Helsinki), as I have to governments which have been engaged in general hostilities, publicly to affirm its determination that its armed forces shall in no event, and under no circumstances, undertake the bombardment from the air of civilian populations or of unfortified cities, upon the understanding that these same rules of warfare will be scrupulously observed by all of their opponents."

Wants Reply.
"I request an immediate reply." The message was transmitted to Laurence A. Steinhardt, American ambassador in Moscow, and H. F. Arthur Schoenfeld, American minister to Helsinki, for transmission to the Russian and Finnish governments.

The message was drafted after Mr. Roosevelt consulted with Secretary of State Hull late yesterday afternoon. Hull was closeted with Mr. Roosevelt for an hour and a half and left the White House without disclosing the nature of the conference to reporters.

Japanese Press Sides With Finns.
TOKYO, Friday, Dec. 1.—(UP)—Japanese newspapers today expressed sympathy for Finland, warning of the small value of Soviet non-aggression pacts.

Nichi Nichi saw in Russia's action an ultimate threat to Germany. Yomiuri said: "The Soviet attitude towards Finland serves as a good lesson for Japan, which also is Russia's neighbor."

ed the view that there was no occasion for good offices. He did not comment further, and it was assumed Hull's declaration would be directed to higher officials. In Finland, Foreign Minister Eljas Erkko said his country would welcome the exercise of good offices.

Commenting on the Russian attack, Senator Clark, Democrat, Idaho, said: "I think it is outrageous. Finland is the only friend we have in Europe—it is certainly the only nation that has kept its promise to pay back the money it borrowed. The Russian invasion constitutes an unjustified demonstration of brute force."

A report from H. F. Arthur Schoenfeld, American minister to Helsinki, said that some buildings were burning within three blocks of the legation.

Schoenfeld cabled that he had opened an emergency office at the Badgrankulla hotel, not far from Helsinki.

Personnel of the American legation is being evacuated to various places in the vicinity of the hotel, Schoenfeld reported.

The State Department said Schoenfeld would

SOUND REPORTED TO EXPLODE NEW MINE OF GERMANS

Britain Believed to Have Discovered Formidable Secret by Finding Undetonated Sea Weapons.

By EDWARD E. BOMAR.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—(P)—The new type German mines "lamed" for heavy recent shipping losses in the North sea were reported today to be so devised that their charge may be set off by sound waves as well as by the magnetic force of a ship's hull.

Informed quarters here said they had received word that Great Britain had discovered the secret of the mines by recovering several of them unexploded.

While they were described as probably the most formidable new weapon of the war, British naval authorities were represented as confident that means of coping with them could be devised quickly, now that their nature and mechanism has been brought to light.

British Findings.

The British findings were said to be:

1. The firing mechanism was extremely sensitive and was based on a trigger that would be sprung either by magnetic force or, through acoustical horns, by sound waves.

2. The mines apparently were anchored directly on the sea bottom, rather than set adrift or attached to cables regulating their distance beneath the surface.

3. The explosive charge was heavy enough to blast the hull of a passing surface ship from a considerable depth, but the weapon

Appeals Court Places Value On Yellow Dog

The Georgia court of appeals disagreed yesterday with the Pickens superior court on the value of a yellow dog.

The higher court ruled that although no malice was involved, the L. and N. railroad had destroyed valuable property when Virgil Fountain's dog was killed by a train.

A $49.50 judgment against the railroad in justice of peace court was reversed by the Pickens superior court, which in turn was reversed by the court of appeals.

were most effective in comparatively shallow coastal waters. One was recovered from a depth of nearly 150 feet.

4. They apparently were sown considerable distances apart by mine-laying submarines, and then additional mines were dropped in some instances by aircraft, flying high enough above the water not to detonate those already in place.

Reports Confirmed.

The information that the mines could not be removed by the conventional operation of "sweeping" by means of cables towed by surface vessels confirmed earlier reports to this effect from London and Berlin.

It raised a new difficulty for British and French naval forces. Some ordnance experts thought it might be met by using energy rays which they said should be effective at considerable distances.

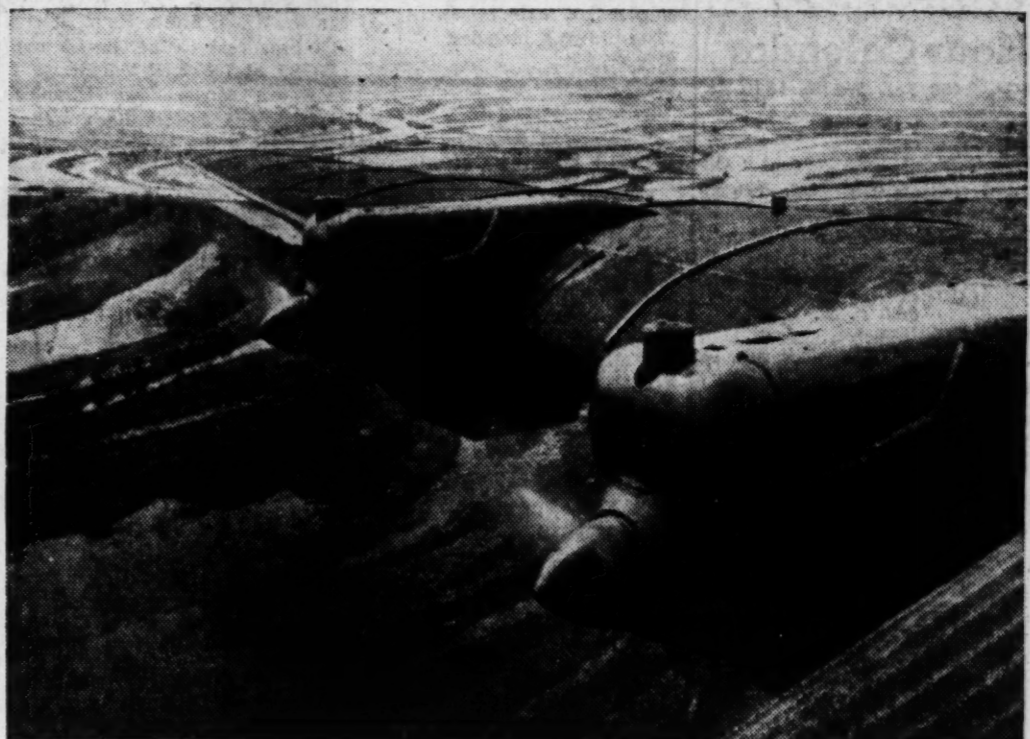

A firing mechanism sensitive enough to be set off by sound waves or by magnetism would react to an energy ray of some kind, it was suggested.

The new German mines were represented a military advance over the types used in 1914-18, which were exploded either by direct contact with projecting "horns" or by contact with trailing antennae which carried an electric current.

On the Sea and in the Air Russia Moves To Crush Her Tiny Neighbor

Reports yesterday from the southern part of Finland told of the shelling of several coastal towns by the Russian fleet which, once the Kremlin made its move with troops and airplanes, was promptly ordered to proceed westward. Pictured above is the Soviet cruiser Kirov, at anchor near Kronstadt.

It was the bombers of the Soviet which first made the wrath of Russia known to Finland in language other than diplomatic. Several cities, including the Finnish capital, were bombed yesterday. The capital, Helsinki, burned through the night, offering a perfect target for further attacks and rendering the "blackout" useless. Shown is a heavy-duty Soviet bomber similar to the ones which rained destruction upon the hapless Finns. Some were repulsed after a time.

FINLAND-U. S. TRADE HAS BEEN CLIMBING

Finns Bought $19,252,000 Worth Last Year, Sold $16,684,000 Worth.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—(P)—The Commerce Department characterized Russia's invasion of Finland today as threatening economic catastrophe to the little war-born republic.

Finland's trade with the United States, though much smaller than with Great Britain, has been increasing steadily, and last year Finland bought $19,252,000 worth of goods from the United States and sold $16,684,000 worth to the United States.

"The weak spot in Finnish economy," the Commerce Department said, "is the fact that the country is dependent to a very large degree on exports for its prosperity."

"Therefore, the effects of a cataclysmic war would inevitably have an immediate adverse effect in Finland."

The department issued a 20-page analysis of Finland's economy, for the information of persons following the new conflict.

The report showed that Finland's prosperity has been based on huge exports of forest products and a few other items to Great Britain and other countries. It was because of the large volume of exports, the department said, that Finland had enough foreign money to pay promptly on foreign debts such as the war debt to the United States government.

White Buys Up Vitamins On Entraining for Berlin

By WILLIAM L. WHITE.

Rome, Italy.—(By Mail).—What does one take into Germany? Maybe you don't care, but I have bed No. 5 on the Rome-Berlin Express which leaves at 7:10 tonight from the Central Station. The newspapermen who went in last week said that, following the advice of a friend in the German embassy in Rome, he was taking vitamin tablets—one for every day he would spend in Germany—each tablet containing vitamins A, B, C and D.

But the newspaperman who came out of Berlin last night—the first American to leave there via Rome since the war—said: "Oh, don't bother. They've got enough. Not plenty, but enough. Of course, who took me aside later to warn: "Don't pay any attention to him. Take in all you can. He went to Berlin after two years in Russia, and of course he thought Berlin flowed with milk and honey after Moscow. But you've just come from America. You won't think so. Buy yourself a canvas kit bag and take in all you can carry. It'll be a long, cold, hungry winter."

And then, to cap this, came the Prince and the Baron, two engaging young Germans in the cocktail room of the Hotel Excelsior who stopped at our table to speak to the Spanish girl from General Franco's embassy. They explained, in beautiful English—one had been a ski instructor in Sun Valley in America—that, since things were for the moment quiet on the westwall, they had got leave from their regiments to come down to Italy to eat. "Here we get butter, sugar, cakes, chocolate, even cigarettes—all we want!" they explained gaily.

With the Prince and the Baron and their eating trip to Italy in mind, I do my last minute shopping. A dozen tins of canned butter, each holding about half a pound (guaranteed for a year) and each costing about 40 American cents. One a week for about three months if I need it. A dozen huge bars of Swiss milk chocolate with almonds in them—I remember how every one craved sweets in Paris just after the last World War—again one a week for three months. From the English pharmacy in the Piazza de Spagna, one hundred ABCD vitamin tablets (and a fancy little price they want for them), so that, if Germany is short on green stuffs, one a day will keep away rickets, scurvy and foreign doctors.

In addition, a suit of long wool underwear (the first I've worn since I was 12), because who knows how much coal they have, and, if I visit the Westwall, who expects it to be steam-heated in January? And then, in addition to the flashlight for air-raids, all the current and old copies of the English and American newspapers I can buy from the corner newsstand, because "If you want to do the press gang in Berlin a real favor, bring them in some newspapers. I've been in Rome six hours and I've read 15 from cover to cover. In Berlin, you feel completely out of touch with the whole western world. They forbid the sale of British and French papers there. For some reason the American ones don't seem to get through. Unless you can read Dutch or Norwegian you know only what you get from the German papers—which of course haven't room for much American news. If you understand me, And I said I did.

Working for "Hoover."

"Well, then," he said, "here's something else you had better understand. It is that you'd better assume that everybody you talk to in there, except the American newspaper gang and our embassy crowd, is either working for Mr. Hoover or else is a friend of his."

And you don't mean Mr. Herbert Hoover; you mean our other Mr. Hoover.

"That's it," he said, "only this Mr. Hoover isn't ours."

So in just a few hours I climb on the Rome-Berlin express equipped with a kit-bag full of carbohydrates, and a musty college-acquired knowledge of German irregular verbs which completely deserts me in emergencies. With this fragile armor I leave behind me all vestiges of what has been called decadent western democracy and enter the land of the swastika to see the new Germany. And if as I wrote this the temperature of my feet is about zero Centigrade, it is not entirely because this hotel in Rome has no steam heat.

Persuasive as the Flame to the Mouth This Audacious Perfume

It's a Challenge to Man—He Stops Looks, Lingers

By Lillian Mae.

It brings out the challenge in your personality—makes the most of your feminine allure.

When you wear it he will stop, look—and linger! It's frankly not the kind of perfume the shrinking violet will care for, nor is it at all suitable for her to use. To wear it is really to court danger. It's the ultimate in perfume's challenge to man.

This audacious perfume some months ago came out of Paris and quickly won the esteem of smart women, frank in their femininity. They found it "truly not for the timid." But there was a drawback. The perfume was put up only in a large and expensive bottle.

There's such a clamor that the manufacturer now sends us from Paris a fascinating duplicate of the original cut-crystal block bottle, in a size and at such a price that it may be possessed and worn by women who have sighed for it previously.

And be very sure of this: It is destined to break many, many hearts. Let him beware who burns his wings at your bright flame.

This new size and price which brings the persuasive-as-the-flame-to-the-mouth perfume excitingly closer to you is here in time for the Christmas list. And in luck indeed, will be the man who says it with this exciting perfume on the night when Old St. Nick calls to his reindeer and clatters over housetops.

Phone me, and I'll give you the name of this daring perfume and tell you where it may be purchased. If you do not live in Atlanta, write me, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.

Vitamin Deficiency Believed Main Cause of Gum Disease

By Dr. William Brady.

Gingivitis is inflammation of the gums. Sometimes chronic gingivitis is known as Riggs' disease. Persons subject to chronic inflammation of the gum and lining of the tooth sockets generally have poor health. Is the Riggs' disease responsible for the impaired health? Or is the condition of the gums, tooth sockets and other tissues of the mouth one of the manifestations of an underlying constitutional condition which accounts also for the poor health?

The answer to these questions is a matter of opinion. It seems to me that the trend of professional opinion today is toward the belief that Riggs' disease is rather one manifestation of nutritional deficiency. The deficiency is probably a multiple deficiency in the intake, assimilation, utilization and retention of calcium and phosphorus. I repeat I am merely trying to give what I think is the prevailing view of authorities today.

Every medical practitioner and probably most dental practitioners see this incident in the course of chronic gingivitis: The patient suffers a sudden chill or chilly sensation and immediately assumes he or she is "taking cold." That interpretation is as wrong as it is to ascribe the chill of septicemia (acute blood poisoning) from an infected wound to "taking cold." Accompanying the chilliness there may be nausea or vomiting, and perhaps a severe headache or general aches or pains resembling an attack "of grip," and shortly after the chill there is high fever and considerable prostration.

Any of this illness is due to accumulation of pus in a pocket somewhere in the inflamed gums or in a tooth socket. If the pus drains from the pocket, perhaps alongside the affected tooth, the patient makes a prompt and otherwise inexplicable recovery.

Unless the physician makes a regular practice of inspecting gums and teeth as part of his examination of the patient, the nature of the attack may go unrecognized. A patient who suffers such attacks at intervals is prone to scout the suggestion that such severe illness can be due to a trifling accumulation of pus in a gum or tooth socket, for hasn't he had Riggs' disease and poor teeth for years and years?

Some of the wrong diagnoses made in such septic floods are "heavy cold," "grip," "gastric fever," "bilious attack" and "fever and ague (malaria)."

Unfortunately in most instances there is no special pain in a pus-pocket in the soft tissues of the gum, and that fact misleads the careless diagnostician.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Hernia Cured.

I am another reader who took your advice. I had a hard time finding a reliable doctor who gives the ambulant treatment, but finally my dentist told me that Dr. ... does fine work, and now I can testify that he does. I had carried my hernia for eight years. ... nothing but praise for the practical value of your articles. (F. B.)

Answer—After all, dentists are near-doctors, aren't they? I have a monograph on hernia for copy send a 15-cent stamped envelope bearing your address. If you ask a question requiring individual answer, put 3-cent stamp on return envelope.

Bunion.

Is bunion a growth, sort of an aggravated corn? (Mrs. P. G. T.)

Answer—No, it is a deformity. Correction is given in booklet "Care of the Feet"—for copy send 10 cents coin and stamped envelope bearing your address.

Tularemia.

Can a person get rabbit fever from drinking raw milk or eating vegetables in salads, etc? (Mrs. B. H.)

Answer—No. Tularemia is usually contracted by handling, skinning, dressing rabbits, sometimes other wild game, that have the disease—evidenced chiefly by little white spots scattered through the liver. Tularemia is sometimes conveyed from rabbit or other wild animal to man in the bite of the wood tick or other parasite. Tame rabbits are not susceptible to tularemia. Beware of the wild rabbit or other game that fails to run from danger as a normal animal does.

Made at Budget Cost

By Alice Brooks.

Hush my dear, lie still and slumber Holy angels guard thy bed Heavenly blessings without number Gently falling on thy head

Men who are finding it difficult to pay their insurance premiums on the dot somehow manage to scrape up dues to the social clubs which they justify by saying that such expenditures are absolutely necessary to the social life of the wife and children. And now the scene is set for tragedy: mortgage on the home, nicks out of the insurance policies, everything purchased on time, paid for in installments. Childre growing up with false standards, knowing nothing of the value of a dollar, and assuming that what they want they can get if dad has a down payment to lay on the line.

There's a fine article in November issue of a popular magazine, "Family Sessions, Inc." (condensed from your life) which every family in America should read and mull over. It tells the story of a man who died and left his family a legacy of mortgages, unpaid installments and eviscerated insurance policies. The family had lived steadily beyond their means, always expecting to pay out; but death came unexpectedly to the head of the family and all were caught short.

When the executor of that bankrupt estate had informed the widow that she had nothing but debts he went home to take stock and discovered to his chagrin that where he had suddenly his family would have far less money than was needed for their necessities. So Family Sessions, Inc., came into being.

Read the full story of this organization composed of father, mother and children, each of whom was to be in the know about the family finances, each of whom was to have a full say-so in family expenditures and savings. See how the family pared its budget and made a game of it. Read it and see how one man's love and pride and vanity tempered with common sense.

Acquaint Family With Financial Status

By Caroline Chatfield.

It's generally conceded that the American men are the most indulgent husbands in the world and likewise that American fathers are quite willing to work themselves to death to give their children the advantages that will "up" them in life. There's no sop to an American man's vanity so satisfying as being able to endorse his family in a fine home in the right neighborhood, to decorate his wife with costly clothes, furnish his children with cars and horses and all the other things that tend to put them in the social forefront. All of which may be right and proper if he has money to burn, and his family has been made safe in case of his death.

Thereby hangs the tale of many an American tragedy which could have been averted if love and pride and vanity had been tempered with common sense. Yet today it seems to take character of high order for a man to deny his family the luxuries the neighbors have, regardless of his ability to pay for those luxuries. Men who haven't a cent of surplus left when the necessities of life are provided, buy automobiles for their children, dress to ride to school and frequently the cars are wrecked or worn out before the last installments are paid.

Men who are finding it difficult to pay their insurance premiums on the dot somehow manage to scrape up dues to the social clubs which they justify by saying that such expenditures are absolutely necessary to the social life of the wife and children. And now the scene is set for tragedy: mortgage on the home, nicks out of the insurance policies, everything purchased on time, paid for in installments. ## Ruffing Value Determines Free Raise

By Harold Sharpsteen.

With no intervening bid by second hand, partner of the opening bidder should sense the obligation of keeping the bidding open with any hand containing at least a king and queen in different suits, a king and two jacks; or even three queens.

Holding normal trump support, about one honor-trick, responding hand raises partner's opening suit bid. Lacking normal trump support, at least one honor-trick divided in two suits, responding hand bids no trump.

Neither the single raise nor the one no-trump response requires the opening bidder to rebid his hand, because responder most likely would not have bid except for the fact that second hand passed.

When second hand defensively overcalls the opening bid, third hand is not expected to respond with a hand as weak as one honor-trick, because the intervening bid by opponent gives opening bidder another chance.

Therefore, if third hand does raise or bid no-trump, after an intervening bid, either response becomes a free response, promising a minimum of 11-12 honor-tricks or the equivalent in trumping or ruffing tricks.

In addition to normal trump support, the number of honor-tricks, needed for a free raise depends upon the ruffing value of raiser's hand.

(1) If the hand contains normal support and a void suit, a free raise may be given holding 1-2 honor-trick.

(2) If the shortest side suit is a singleton, one honor-trick is needed.

(3) When the shortest suit is a doubleton, 11-12 honor-tricks.

(4) Two honor-tricks are required with a 4-3-3-3 hand pattern.

If partner opens one heart, second hand overcalls two clubs, raise to two hearts holding: (1) S-H-3 7 6 3 D-7 5 3 2 C-K 9 4 3; (2) S-3 H-Q 7 6 D-K 7 5 3 2 C-9 4 3 2; (3) S-3 2 H-Q 6 5 D-K 7 5 3 C-K 8 6 5; (4) S-6 5 4 H-K 6 4 D-Q 7 5 3 C-A 9 4.

Following a defensive overcall made at the level of one, a bid of one no-trump by third hand promises a minimum of 11-12 honor-tricks and a stopper, at least Q 10 x, in opponent's bid suit.

When the opponent's overcall is made at the two level, a two no-trump response by third hand should guarantee 21-22 honor-tricks and a stopper in the adverse suit.

Next Friday's lesson will cover the one-over-one, one-round forcing suit takeout.

Maybe Director, Not Star, Needed Dialogue Coach

By Sheila Graham.

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 30.—On the "New Moon" set, Nelson Eddy has to bend over to pick up a spoon. His pants are eighteenth-century—in other words, a skin-tight fit. As he bends, there is an ominous tearing sound. Nelson blushes, then yells—"You'd better send for the emergency squad, I can't turn around."

They are using a new type of camera on the picture which enables Director Woody Van Dyke to work twice as fast. Since Woody is already the speediest director in the business, I'm not surprised that his leading lady, Jeanette MacDonald, is getting that tired look. She is wearing a white wig and looks rather like Norma Shearer in "Marie Antoinette." Some of the dressing worn in that picture is figuring again in "New Moon," which covers the same century.

Mr. Eddy has a funny story to tell of his recent acting chore with Ilona Massey in "Balalaika." He had to say, "I Love You," to Miss Massey, and Miss Massey had to reply, "I wish you wouldn't," but she insisted on saying, "I wish you wouldn't." A dialogue expert was called in and finally got her to use "I" instead of "You." "That's fine," said Foreign Director Reinhold Schunzel, "say it the way he said—"I wish you wouldn't." "What was needed," concludes Eddy, "was a dialogue director for the director."

Ann Southern in Metro's "Congo Maïse" is wearing a thin pink dress and a long cigarette holder. Her leading man, John Carroll, is making advances to her, but she pushes him away, saying, "We are not my type." This is supposed to be funny, and Mr. Carroll has to laugh uproariously. He finds this hard to do. "Laugh, man, laugh," commands Director Hank Potter, who is finally reduced to making funny faces at Carroll to get the desired effect.

Miss Southern tells me that she was at Metro 10 years ago under the moniker of Harriet Lake. "I was supposed to be a stock girl," she says, "but all I did was to pose for leg art. No one knew I existed—not even when I left in a huff for the New York musical comedy stage. But it's different now. Why, Louis B. Mayer himself came down to the set twice to see if I was happy. I think I'm happy, but I almost cut my throat when I saw 'Fast and Furious' (her last epic for the studio)."

MY DAY Can Refugees Solve Unemployment Problem?

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

NEW YORK CITY.—It seems to me that I am constantly finding little errands to do between real engagements in New York city. All the errands are unimportant, but they add up to a good many little trips from one shop to another. Yesterday I was looking for a particular gift which a member of our household desires for a room she is furnishing. So far, three stores have yielded me nothing that I could bear to live with, and I am beginning to wonder if my taste is peculiar.

I had some guests in for tea and we were so busy talking that I suddenly realized there were just 20 minutes left before I had to be at the hotel for the dinner given by the Good Neighbor League committee on the emigre and the community. Needless to say, I was a little late, but I did not keep them waiting long.

I had invited as one of my guests, a young Austrian girl, Miss Lotta Kraus, who has a charmingly trained concert voice. When I told Dr. John Elliott about her, he suggested that I ask her if she would sing a couple of songs at the end of the dinner. She did, to the evident enjoyment of even the guests in the gallery, some of whom nearly fell over the railing trying to see her as she stood in the corner of the room.

More and more I am getting the feeling that in all these various things in which we are interested, the important thing is for each individual to tackle certain definite problems and handle what he can himself. With the experience gained, any large-scale undertaking will be more wisely handled. We need to think of the refugee problem from the point of view of gain to us in the long run, as well as our present individual expenditure. The figures which impressed me most were those showing that the volume of refugees entering this country to take up permanent citizenship under the quotas was balanced within about 5,000 by the number of foreign people departing from our shores for one reason or another.

It was stressed by the people dealing directly with these emigres that, in the old days, a vast majority of people coming in were in the unskilled labor group, whereas at present it is the educated, highly skilled in both professional and technical work, who are knocking at our gates. Many of these bring us actual contributions in the form of patents and even of enough money to start their business up again in this country which employ some of our own unemployed citizens. It is not, therefore, as one-sided a business as we think. People are not throwing Americans out of work to employ refugees, though isolated cases of this might be found. On the whole, we stand a good chance of having our refugees help us to solve our unemployment problem.

Woman's Quiz

Q. What is the proper way to prepare a bed for a new baby?

A. The book on Infant Care, issued by the Children's Bureau of the United States Department of Labor, states that the first requisite of a good bed is that it should enable the child to lie perfectly flat. The first bed may be a bassinet, or a large flat clothes basket, or even a wooden soap box. A folded piece of table padding or several thicknesses of blanket may be used as a mattress; it must be flat and smooth. The basket or box should stand on a table, or on two chairs placed with their seats together, and should never be left on the floor with the baby in it. A larger bed will be needed when the baby tries to sit up, so that it is well to start with a permanent crib and a firm mattress that does not sag in the middle. To make the baby's bed, cover the mattress, or at least the middle section, with a piece of oilcloth or soft rubber sheeting, each corner of which a strong tape has been sewed. Tie these tapes together under the mattress to water by means of a cord or brush. After a lapse of about one minute, continue to rub the stain with a clean wet cloth.

Have you a household problem to solve? Write your question clearly, sign your name and address, enclose a three-cent stamp and mail to the Woman's Editor, of The Constitution's Washington Service Bureau, 1013 Thirteenth street, Washington, D. C., for a personal reply. Don't telephone; write as directed.

Avoid Writing As Someone Else Writes

Too busy to write letters? Not if you know ways to make it easy. Quickly then you pen the letters that bind friends to you, that help you get ahead in business.

Rule Number One is—don't try to write like someone else. Mr. Pompos may be quick at sentences like this—"My visit at your exquisite home was most enjoyable!" But if you try to write your bread-and-butter notes in that style it will take hours—and won't sound sincere at that!

Be natural, friendly, write as you would talk. "What a genius you are! A few people, a fireplace—and the hours flew! Need I say I enjoyed myself?"

And a shame to lose track of old friends because you think you haven't time to write interesting letters.

No need to spend hours thinking up exciting subjects. File newsy bits in your mind ready for use—and then your pen flies along: "Bill and Mary are building a new 'salt-box' cottage. I saw Bill astride the roof this morning as I passed."

And you quickly write that important business letter if you break away from the old-fashioned deadwood: "Your esteemed favor—as per your request... I beg to state..."

Good business letters today are simple, friendly, straightforward. Easy to write: "Thank you for your letter. I shall call tomorrow at 4 as you suggest..."

To be sure of correct form helps you in your letter-writing too. What paper to use? How should you sign yourself—socially, in business? Our 40-page booklet, How to Write Letters for All Occasions, answers these and dozens of other letter-writing questions. Gives helpful tips on vocabulary, has many sample letters for business and social occasions, also love letters.

Send 15c in coins for our booklet, HOW TO WRITE LETTERS FOR ALL OCCASIONS, to Home Institute, The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga. Write plainly your name, address and the name of booklet.

Deep South in Ultra Modern Setting Forms Theme for Decorative Motif

By Sally Forth.

THE deep south in an ultra-modern setting provides the theme for the decorations in the brand-new ballroom at the Capital City Club, the gala formal opening of which was a high light of last evening's calendar. A throng of club members and a number of prominent visitors dined their "best bibs and tuckers" for the occasion, and enjoyed dining and dancing to the music of a popular out-of-town orchestra.

Stippling modernistic in design, the room is one of the most beautiful in the country. Beige leather walls, natural maple woodwork, and countless gleaming mirrors featuring hand-painted murals form its artistic high lights. Dining tables of beige leather and maple are placed on a raised dais overlooking the circular dance floor. The mirrored walls behind the tables are characterized by Athon Menaboni's inimitable paintings of Georgia plant and bird life.

Gardenias entwining pale yellow bamboo, morning glories trailing from long-leaf pine trees, cotton bolls, dogwood, magnolia, cattails, sumac and cottonwood are examples of Georgia plant life represented. To lend color and warmth to his murals, Mr. Menaboni has skillfully introduced Georgia birds, including the well-known chickadee, the flycatcher, the egret and the bluejay.

Among the loveliest murals is that picturing a hummingbird hovering over a pink lotus blossom. Another features a brilliant cardinal perched characteristically on a stalk of sugar cane, and still another depicts a yellowbill cuckoo, lingering on the branches of a swamp magnolia tree.

Of interest is the fact that the technique used in these paintings is the exact reverse of that usually applied. Instead of sketching the outlines and contours of his subjects first, and later filling in details, the gifted artist began with the details, and applied his color splashes later.

The murals will last throughout the mirrors' existence, for each was painted on the back of the glass before it was silvered for everlasting preservation. The orchestra played from a raised island located on the dance floor. The beige leather and maple bar which dominates one end of the room, is overhung by myriads of glass tubes, simulating icicles, and lighted indirectly in pastel colors.

Credit is due the firm of Hentz, Adler & Shutz for the designing of the room, which is responsible for its sophistication and charm. The name of the new rendezvous, you remember, will be chosen from an avalanche of entries submitted by club members, the winning name to be announced at the club's New Year's Eve ball. A generous prize will reward the person responsible for the most original and appropriate name.

The club president, Clark Howell, and Mrs. Howell dined with a group of friends, including Mr. and Mrs. Allison Thornwell, Mr. and Mrs. Neal Conrad and Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Maddox Jr. Another congenial group assembling for dinner included Mr. and Mrs. Robert Strickland, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Harrison, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Grady Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Carter.

Dr. and Mrs. J. G. Williams dined with Mr. and Mrs. Goodloe Yancey and Mr. and Mrs. Evan McConnell, Mr. and Mrs. Scott Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Andre Walsh, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Booker and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Workman formed a congenial group. Mr. and Mrs. Everett N. Brown had as their guests Mr. and Mrs. Earle Yancey, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Loidans, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Harmon and Dr. and Mrs. Barnard Shackelford.

Dining with Mr. and Mrs. Eric Cooke were Mr. and Mrs. John Tye Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. W. V. Crowley and Mr. and Mrs. Garrett Evans were together.

Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Everette, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Horacek Sr. and Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Byers formed a group. Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Merea-

Miss Dorothea Blackshear Weds Frank Brady Jr. at Church Rites

MR. AND MRS. FRANK BRADY JR.

An artistic color motif of plaza blue and canary yellow marked the wedding of Miss Dorothea Blackshear and Frank Brady Jr., of Charlotte, N. C., which was solemnized last evening at 8:30 o'clock at the First Presbyterian church.

Dr. William V. Gardner and Dr. J. Sproule Lyons performed the ceremony in the presence of an assemblage of friends and relatives of the bridal couple, and out-of-town wedding guests. Dr. Charles Sheldon Jr. presented organ selections.

The altar was beautified with palms and sprays of tuberoses, and flanked on either side by baskets of Easter lilies, and cathedral candelabra holding white tapers. Lighted cathedral candles marked the family pews.

Miss Elizabeth Blackshear, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and Mrs. Malcolm Tarver Jr., of Dalton, was matron of honor.

Bridesmaids were: Miss Duchess Oliver, cousin of the bride; Misses Julie McClatchey, Marjorie Carmichael, Bright Bickelstaff, Henrietta Gunn, Anne Scott Harmon, Marion Fugitt, and Mrs. Bruce Gregory, of Savannah. All the attendants were gowned alike in plaza blue taffeta models, the full skirts billowing from wasp waists, and featuring bustle backs. The shirred bodices were made with heart-shaped necklines and brief puffed sleeves, and the only ornaments worn were strands of pearls, gifts of the bride's mother. They carried bouquets of yellow chrysanthemums. Ushers were Walter Aichel, William Garrett, John Jackson, Milton Goolsby, Thomas Law and Count Gibson. Groomsmen were Currie Brady, brother of the groom; Dan Myers, of Jacksonville, Fla.; Bruce Gregory, of Savannah; Judson Bowen, Layton Renfro, of Greenville; Perry Blackshear Jr., and David Blackshear.

The bride entered with her father, Perry Lynfield Blackshear, by whom she was given in marriage, and was met at the altar by the groom and his brother, Harold Brady, who served as best man. She was a picture of radiant beauty wearing her mother's wedding gown of ivory charmeuse fashioned on princess lines, and featuring bouffant puffed sleeves and a high collar of real lace. The skirt and the graceful train were encrusted with seed pearls in an orchid design, and featured inserts of exquisite lace. The matching tulle veil fell from a coronet of fragrant orange blossoms, and she carried a shower bouquet of lilies roses and valley lilies, centered with orchids.

After the ceremony, the bride's parents were hosts at a reception at the Biltmore hotel. Receiving with the hosts were the bride and groom, and the groom's mother, Mrs. Frank Brady, of Leesburg, Florida.

Mrs. Blackshear was becomingly gowned in claret velvet worn with matching accessories and accented by a shoulder cluster of orchids. The groom's mother wore royal blue lace posed over matching crepe. Her accessories were black, and her shoulder bouquet was of orchids.

The bride's table was overlaid with a white satin cloth, and centered with a tiered wedding cake embedded in a mound of roses and valley lilies. White candles, gleaming from silver candelabra cast a soft glow, and bowls of white roses adorned either end of the table. Miss Lydia Holliday and Mrs. Richard Pharis, of Newark, Ohio, kept the bride's book.

Mr. Brady and his bride left for a wedding trip, the latter wearing a modish costume suit of Pacific blue with navy accessories. Completing her attire was a shoulder spray of lavender orchids. Upon their return the young couple will reside in Charlotte, N. C., where they will become popular additions to the young married social contingent.

Out-of-town guests attending the ceremony were Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Tarver Jr., of Dalton;

Independent in Thought, Action

By ALICE DENTON JENNINGS.

MISS MARY VIRGINIA MCCONNELL.

The hand of debutante Mary Virginia McConnell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Owen McConnell, with its well-defined line of head indicates independence of thought and action, a well balanced personality, with marked idealistic and intellectual qualities.

The thumb curving slightly back bespeaks personal magnetism, while the delightful hostess is indicated by the shape of the hand and the rounded finger tips. The many little lines, called "chance lines" appearing in the hand denote vivid imagination, tremendous love of beauty and sincere sympathy.

A line of intuition begins on the side of the hand under the fourth finger and runs in the form of a semi circle down the palm. This denotes intuitive inspiration of "hunches" of how things should be done and very often manifests itself in the ability to solve problems with the utmost accuracy.

The type heart line indicates an unusual gift for friendships, a strong personality, and a highly developed sense of justice, all of which attributes go a long way towards a happy and successful life. Mary Virginia's hand shows in

The Receiving Line.

The receiving line stood before the fireplace in front of a bank of cybodium and woodwardia ferns interspersed with Robelia palms. White wrought iron pedestals holding cascade arrangements of pale pink roses, gold snapdragons and yellow chrysanthemums completed the lovely background. Circular scrolls threaded with pink satin ribbon and placed against the pedestals formed a background for the numerous exotic orchids sent the debutante by admiring friends.

Other floral tributes attesting her popularity were massed against the bank of palms, while directly behind her was a novel arrangement holding several fans formed of pink orchids, an old-fashioned nosegay in a lace paper holder and a bouquet of pink orchids, which were gifts from Mrs. Harry English, Mrs. Mitchell King, Mr. and Mrs. John Sibley, of Wilmington, Del., and from members of Mrs. Spalding's sewing club.

Receiving with Mr. and Mrs. Spalding were Miss Leontine Raymond, of New Jersey, who are the guests of the debutante.

Miss Spalding's Gown. Miss Spalding was stunning in her Schiaparelli adaptation of a Russian ballet model. Combining pale pink and white, the gown featured a full graceful skirt of four layers of pink and white tulle, and a bodice of white tulle appliqued with pink sequins in rose design at the long waist line. The debutante wore a pale pink seersucker hat and carried a beautiful fan of pink orchids, a gift from an admiring friend.

Mrs. Spalding was handsomely attired in an ivory-tinted satin gown which featured a full graceful skirt, and a bodice, with bands of pink fur and silver sequins, and a shoulder spray of purple orchids.

Mrs. Phinizy chose for her granddaughter's presentation a black velvet gown with which she wore a diamond heart-shaped pin and a shoulder bouquet of white orchids.

Miss Fortson wore an exquisite model of white tulle which featured a draped silver lame bodice. Her flowers were a shoulder bouquet of lavender orchids.

Miss Raymond was costumed in rainbow net combining blue, yellow and flesh tones. The bodice was fashioned of blue and silver lame, and a shoulder spray of deep purple orchids completed the ensemble.

The buffet tables in the foyer and in the ballroom were centered with pyramid arrangements of pink roses, gold snapdragons and yellow chrysanthemums tied with pink satin ribbons. The ends of the ribbons cascaded to the tables and were held in place by iridescent gold leaves. Completing the table decorations were golden candelabra holding burning pink tapers.

The punch bowls placed on the enclosed porch were banked with yellow flowers and greenery.

KISS AFTER MIDNIGHT

On The Ship They Meet Dr. "Bill" Halsey and Young Pete Trader

By Margaret Gorman Nichols.

SYNOPSIS: Faith Gardner, orphaned as a child, is raised by an aunt in a New England village. She is a stenographer in a factory and when her aunt dies she goes to New York. Lonely, jobless sometimes, after two years she and Gretchen Cole furnish a small apartment. Faith is then a secretary in the firm of which Walter Edmonds is vice president. Gretchen, who left an Ohio town after a shattered romance, is a stylist in a big store. Greg Heath, employed by the Edmonds firm takes her to a cocktail party given by Edmonds and his wife Astrid. Walter presents her to Franz Bragdon, musician and composer, whom Astrid met in Hawaii. She is in love with him and plans to divorce Walter. Even before she meets Carl Edmonds, Walter's brother, famous as an aviator, she is in love with him. As she leaves, the Edmonds pretty, headstrong, 16-year-old daughter Sue meets her, saying she has run away from school again. She likes Faith and at her suggestion Walter makes her his secretary. He asks her to win Sue's confidence and suggest how to handle her. Faith despairs when Carl says he will never marry because of his roving, hazardous life. Astrid suddenly seems to Philip Turner, who had quit hard drinking when he met her. Sue is desperate; she refuses to sleep with the young Michael Britton and he said he wouldn't see her again. Walter asks Faith to take Sue to Florida. Carl kisses Faith for the first time but she knows he won't marry her. Now go on with the story:

ing that she would see him at the shop tomorrow, she walked slowly into the apartment building. The living room of the apartment was dark. Darkness everywhere, she thought, removing the long, black velvet wrap. She could not see ahead for Walter, for Sue, for Astrid, for Carl, for Gretchen, for Philip . . . for herself. All were groping, some generous, some selfish, all bewildered by lack of foresight. Was it good-bye to love for all of them?

Her trunk was packed and her ticket lay on the maple dresser. Going away . . . but taking her love with her, taking the memories of Carl to the beach of Florida and on into a dark tomorrow for which she had lost all taste, all desire. When all was sifted, her past, her present and her future, one thing would remain—her love for Carl, vital but silent, silenced forever by an ardent kiss and a tender kiss after midnight.

The gleaming white ship, her decks filled with frantically waving passengers, had left the dock only a few minutes earlier. And the well wishers on the pier, waving frantically, too, had already become dim through the cloudy winter twilight. "I can still see daddy and mother!" Sue cried, dropping a tired arm. She wore a boxy squirrel jacket and green frock and green felt hat. Orchids were tremulous on the lapel of her coat. "They're still waving," Faith said. There were orchids on the lapel of her black coat that Walter had sent. "I don't see Gretchen. She probably didn't stay." Gretchen had been quiet and obviously pressed at meeting Walter and Astrid. There was a new sadness about her. Not for a long time, if ever, would she forget the lean figure of a dark-haired young man walking past her office door—the last time . . .

All about them people were talking in excited voices. A couple obviously bride and groom, left a little path of rice when they walked away from the rail. A little girl was following them, picking it up. . . . Some were looking for the deck steward, some had begun the endless walk about the deck, some were becoming acquainted and some were looking for the bar.

Faith looked at the formidable Manhattan skyline. Leaving Carl . . . When, with Gretchen, she had met Walter and Astrid and Sue today, Walter said, "I asked Carl to come down to see you off. He said he would if he could possibly make it." He had not come. . . .

Their cabin was one of the largest and most luxurious on the ship. They unpacked, taking out the things they would need for the voyage before they went up again to suit about deck chairs and a table reservation. The days at sea were timeless and pleasant, filled with activity of leisurely, old routine temporarily broken. Faith found her deck chair next to that good-looking young man, Dr. Halsey, called Bill after the second day out. A tow-headed boy named Pete Trader, traveling with his parents, played deck games with them and danced with Sue at night and treated her as if she were a boy of 16. The swimmer, talked to strangers, put on abbreviated little play suits, and lay in the sun by day and danced in evening frocks by night.

It was night now, warm, lovely, studded with stars. Wearing a white plique frock with a small jacket, Faith stood on deck with Bill Halsey. She could see Sue in a vivid print evening dress dancing inside with Pete. "Can't I persuade you to fly over to Nassau while I'm there?" Halsey asked. He had alive brown eyes, smooched dark hair and a steady voice. He was a surgeon in Pittsburgh, he had told Faith, and this was his first holiday in years.

Liking him, thinking him rather like Walter, she said, "I'd like to but I really can't." "Sue? Your charge?" he laughed. She had told him that Sue was the boss's daughter. He said, "I intended to fly over as soon as we reached Miami but I don't see you again if I do that. So, if you don't mind, I think I'll stick around Miami for a few days and help you chaperon Sue. She's an adorable young thing but doesn't she ever get tired? She's the first person I see in the morning and the last at night. She and Pete send the orchestra to bed every night, don't they?"

FIVE MORE SEEK CHANCE TO WEAR GOWN TO THE BALL

Latest Entries Raise the Number of Girls to 28; All Are Debutantes or Junior Leaguers.

Five more beautiful Atlanta belles yesterday qualified with the "Scarlett" costume committee of the Junior League to bring to 28 the number of girls who seek to wear the gown of Scarlett O'Hara to the League's Charity Ball on December 14.

The latest entries are Miss Virginia Willis, Miss Josephine Clayton, Miss Ruthanna Butters, Miss Marion Dunson Bedell and Miss Helen Clarke.

Miss Willis, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Willis, of Seventh street, is one of the most attractive members of this year's coterie of debutantes. A former student at Washington Seminary, where she was a Phi Pi, she will make her bow to society during the holiday season.

Miss Clayton, a member of the Junior League for two years, was a member of the 1934-35 Debutantes Club. She attended Washington Seminary, where she was a Phi Pi. She resides on The Prado.

Miss Butters, another member of this year's Debutantes Club, is a former student at Washington Seminary, where she was a Sigma Delta. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Butters, of Huntington road, she made her debut at a supper-dance at the Piedmont Driving Club last Friday night.

Miss Bedell, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Bedell, of 3078 Piedmont road, moved to Atlanta last spring from St. Petersburg, Fla. A former student at the Florida State College for Women, where she was a member of the Pi Beta Phi sorority, she made her debut in St. Petersburg, joining the Junior League there.

Miss Clarke is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Clarke, of West Andrews drive. A 1939 graduate of the University of Georgia, she formerly attended North Fulton High school. She is a Pi Pi and a Tri Delta.

With the five new qualifications received yesterday, more than half of the Atlanta belles eligible to wear the gown have qualified with the League's costume committee.

Those who had previously entered are Miss Becky Wight, Miss Caroline Seiden, Miss Bolling Spalding, Miss Mary McGaughey, Miss Selma Wight, Miss Marianna Adair, Miss Ann Pappenheimer, Miss Beverly Bailey, Miss Caroline Candler, Miss Jane Adair, Miss Louisa Robert, Miss Ida Akers, Miss Roline Adair, Miss George Dargan, Miss Josephine Sanders, Miss Alice Davis, Miss Christine Thiesen, Miss Margaret L'Engle, Miss Margaret Palmer, Miss Mary Virginia McConnell, Miss Peggy Dutton, Miss Florence Jones and Miss Jean Oliver.

LAST RITES TODAY FOR MRS. PAYTON

Burial Will Be in Hill Crest Cemetery.

Final rites for Mrs. Mattie Payton, 56, of 640 Formwalt street, who died Wednesday afternoon at her home, will be conducted at 11 o'clock this morning at the chapel of J. Austin Dillon. The Rev. W. A. Duncan will officiate and burial will be in Hill Crest cemetery.

A native of Rockdale county, she lived at Griffin until recently, and was an active member of the Baptist church. She was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Hamby.

Surviving are her husband, A. W. Payton; two daughters, Miss Mozelle Payton and Mrs. Nettie Holt; a brother, Henry Hamby, and a granddaughter, Patsy Crocker, all of Atlanta.

STUDY OF BERYLLIUM CONDUCTED 18 YEARS

The Brush laboratories in Cleveland have experimented for 18 years with one of science's most interesting problems—the study of beryllium, metal of mystery, which may have important uses in munitions manufacture.

"Beryllium is light and promises to be strong and reasonably plentiful," said Dr. C. Baldwin Sawyer, who has worked for years with the metal at the laboratory established by Charles F. Brush, arc-light inventor.

"When added to copper, beryllium causes it to become hard enough to cut through some steels. This beryllium-copper alloy likewise exceeds the milder steels in tensile strength. Beryllium is considerably lighter than aluminum in its pure state. But we have problems yet to overcome. We now are trying to overcome its brittleness."

WPA Checks Will Arrive Before Santa

Approximately 10,000 Georgia WPA workers who would ordinarily receive their pay checks on December 26, will receive them in time for Christmas shopping, state WPA officials announced yesterday.

The checks, to be placed in the mails on December 22, will total more than $200,000. State office executives reported the same procedure will be observed for New Year's Day, when $400,000 in envelopes, containing $170,000, will be mailed December 29 instead of January 9.

The WPA's Christmas gesture was ordered by Colonel F. C. Harrington, national commissioner, in Washington.

Atlanta will soon turn back the pages of time for two gala evenings, and already society is preparing for the big events. Here we see three charming maids, all ready to be taken for a ride in the 1860's. In the photograph are Misses Marie Pappenheimer, Betty Hammond and Harriet Zahner. The victoria is a relic of ante-bellum days.

This is the way they did it in the sixties, hoopskirt, carriage and all. Miss Harriet Zahner, slightly confused by both vehicle and gown, practices for the big "Gone With the Wind" festivities soon to come off. The carriage once belonged to Governor Henry McDaniel.

Buggy-Riding Etiquette of the '60's Reviewed for Approaching Festival

By YOLANDE GWIN.
Thanks for the buggy ride! Atlanta belles, who will wear hoop skirts and pantalettes for the "Gone With the Wind" festival, are practicing up on their buggy etiquette, for after all, costumes of the '60's don't go with the streamlined motors of '39 and '40.

And motor-car etiquette of the present presents an amusing contrast to the carriage manners of the GWTW days. For instance, back in the days when "Scarlett" went driving with the "Tarleton" twins over the Georgia roads near Tara; with "Rhett Butler" down Peachtree street; or when "Melanie" and "Ashley Wilkes" went driving, here are some of the rules of etiquette that were followed: The choicest seat in a double carriage was the one facing the horses, and gentlemen always yielded this seat to the ladies. If only one gentleman and one lady were riding in a two-seated carriage, the gentleman sat opposite the lady, unless she invited him to sit by her side.

The place of honor was on the right-hand seat facing the horses. This was also the seat of the hostess, which she never resigned. If she was not driving, it was then offered to the most distinguished lady. A person, to be proper, entered a carriage with his back to the seat, so as to prevent turning around in the carriage. Gentlemen were careful not to trample or crush a lady's dress.

A gentleman always alighted first from a carriage, even if he had to pass before a lady in doing so. He then assisted the ladies to alight. If there was a servant with the carriage, the latter held open the door, but the gentleman

Busy Anniversary

The Kurtzes Recall Their Wedding a la Hollywood.

By ANNIE LAURIE KURTZ.

The Constitution presents herewith the exclusive diary of Mrs. Annie Laurie Kurtz, Atlanta, who worked with her husband, Wilbur Kurtz, as technical director in the filming of "Gone With the Wind." Since the filming of a picture has no regular order, the diary, likewise, maintains no sequence. This is the fourth of 15 installments.

JUNE 14, 1939:

Today is our wedding anniversary and Wilbur is still on location way up at Big Bear. But I've had little time to sympathize with myself for being alone on this occasion and the day and evening have passed busily and happily.

We did the scene where Scarlett leaves Melanie's house just after her death and runs up Baker street in the mist, sobbing and calling for Rhett. We recall that, in the story, Scarlett frequently has nightmares—always the same bad dreams—that she is lost in a mist—is blindly fighting her way out, always looking for something, she knows not what—but never finding it.

Here, she is awake—running through a fog, knowing this time that it is something definite she wants—Rhett's arms about her and the security of his love. Our sympathy is with her, for here again, as in her dreams, she is thwarted.

Ann Morgan phoned me this morning and said she was giving a party in my honor this evening—that I should not spend my anniversary alone. She called for me and we went to an attractive place in Los Angeles, where, with six other guests, we had dinner at a specially arranged table. There were flowers, books, and gifts at my place and though 'twas all lots of fun, I kept thinking of Wilbur alone at Big Bear and I was feeling a little conscience-stricken and sorry for him till I got back home, where I found a telegram wishing me a happy day, saying he was feeling fine and having a swell time. Well, this is Hollywood.

JUNE 18, 1939:

Today, Scarlett, far from being a Clayton county belle, assumes an executive role in a big way—she manages a sawmill. The camera catches her at the moment when Johnnie Gallegher, the foreman, demands a free hand with the leased convicts, whose chains clank an obligate to the crescendo of the whirring saw as it bites its way through a log. As for the convicts, they look the part, in costumes designed as "part-colored" in the Georgia statutes of the period. Walter McElreath, of Atlanta, kindly supplied Wilbur with the legal specifications regarding the clothing, board, and keep of this wayward gentry.

JUNE 18, 1939:

It is the custom out here for the major stars on any production to throw a big party on one of the stages at the conclusion of a picture.

This morning we each received an invitation which read:

In gratitude for your unflinching efforts and courtesy during the long siege of Atlanta, and in celebration of the conclusion of the thing, we request the pleasure of your company at a little party to be given on stage 5 immediately after Tuesday's shooting June 27.

Vivien Leigh (Scarlett) Clark Gable (Rhett)
Olivia de Havilland (Melanie) Leslie Howard (Ashley)
Victor Fleming (Big Sam) David O. Selznick (Jonas Wilkerson)

The informality of this party was what made it enjoyable. The "stars" all sat at one table which happened to be very near ours.

Mr. Gable sent us by his secretary today, a photograph of himself on which he had written: "To my friends, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Kurtz, with the best wishes always of Clark Gable." Miss Crews says she is going to give me one of herself—her real self—not in costume.

JUNE 28, 1939:

We received word today that we are to stay on through the summer for montages, retakes, and added scenes. Now we can send for Annie Laurie.

furnished the ladies the required assistance. If a lady had occasion to leave the carriage before the gentleman accompanying her, he alighted to assist her out, and if she wished to resume her seat, he again alighted to help her. In assisting a lady to enter a carriage, a gentleman took care that the skirt of her dress was not allowed to hang outside. A carriage robe was provided to protect her dress from the mud and the dust of the road. The gentleman provided the lady with her parasol, fan and shawl, and saw that she was comfortable in every way. Then he seated himself.

And here is another tip of the '60's regarding appearing in public places—such as the Junior League ball on December 14. "Be guilty of no loud talking or laughing, and by all means avoid conspicuous flirting in so public a place!"

There were 150,000 Germans in Nazi Concentration Camps early in August.

MEXICO, U. S. EXTEND ADJUDICATION PERIOD

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—(AP) Mexico and the United States agreed today to extend until May 31 of next year the period for adjudication of claims of American citizens whose agricultural properties in Mexico have been expropriated since August 30, 1927.

Mexico paid $1,000,000 last May as the first installment toward settlement of the claims. A bipartite claims commission, with one Mexican and one American member, was originally scheduled to complete its examination of claims by May 31, of this year. The date was extended at that time, however, until November 30. By the new agreement, it is extended another six months.

TICKETS FOR BALL READY ON MONDAY

Office Will Reopen to Permit Holders of Reservations to Get Tickets.

The Junior League's "Gone With the Wind" ball headquarters will reopen again—but cautiously—next Monday morning so those who made reservations for the pre-premiere charity dance may pick up their tickets.

The office will be open from 9 o'clock in the morning until 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon each day through December 9. All reservations unclaimed that date will be resold.

Remembering the thousands that besieged the office the day general admission tickets were put on sale, league members announced that "since tickets may be paid for by those holding reservations during the six days the office will be open, there will not be the necessity of rushing down Monday and being put to the inconvenience of waiting in a long line."

Prices for the reserved sections are box seats, $10; dress circle and arena tickets, $3.50, and gallery seats, $2.

Those who hold reservations were reminded that costumes or formal evening wear are as necessary as tickets for entrance to the ball.

Tickets, league officials stated, may not be picked up anywhere except the Broad street office. "This applies to all holding reservations," they added, "including members of the Junior League."

All in the Game

—by Jack Troy

It begins to appear that he is not going to be considered on any all-star selections, but coaches and scouts and other close observers will tell you that there is not a better man at his position than Captain Buck Murphy, of Georgia Tech. That is, in the entire southland.

But Captain Murphy doesn't often carry the ball. You don't see him raging through a broken field with the ball under his arm. He often is found out ahead of the ball carrier doing a great job of blocking, but he doesn't have the ball. That seems to let him out.

It seems that when the all-star groups appear, the pay-off in the backfield concerns who has done what as a ball carrier, kicker and passer.

And yet it is not hard to estimate the value of Captain Buck Murphy to Georgia Tech. Tech would not be unbeaten in the Southeastern conference today if Buck Murphy had been out for any length of time because of injury.

But Murphy hasn't been out of the Jacket lineup because of injury. He has been removed, from time to time, to give him a short breathing spell. There never has been a time all season when he had to leave a game.

Murphy is one of the big reasons for the defensive strength of the Tech team. He backs up the line and makes tackles from one end to the other. He is the best blocker the Jackets have had in years.

It is a sad commentary on all-star picking that the great blocking and defensive backs never get a tumble. Usually, you find the all-star quartet talented at running, kicking and passing. And if they were called upon to play as a unit, they wouldn't get to first base.

Why? Because they would all be stars at carrying the ball and none of them would be very adept at blocking. They would be inadequate on defense. They'd get in each other's way.

That's a definite weak point in the system of picking such teams. The boys who rate the headlines because of their flashing running always are the choice over the men who make many of their runs possible.

As far as this corner is concerned, Buck Murphy is the All-Southeastern blocking and defensive back. There are none better, none more durable.

Texas Aggies Crush Longhorns, 20 to 0

Winners End Season Unbeaten With Three Last Half Scores in Mud.

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, Nov. 30.—(P)—Mighty Texas A. & M. powered its way to an unbeaten season and the gates of a bowl game today, burying University of Texas, 20-0, in the mud of old Kyle field.

Football's "country boy" play, the old sideline hideout, gave the massive Farmers a start that produced three touchdowns in the last two periods while 40,000 shivered in rain and fog.

Shackled the first half by Texas' sophomore rascals and one of the oddest happenings of the football season, the Aggies waited no longer than the kickoff of the third period to start their skullduggery.

Over on the sideline, flattened to the mud, lay Earl (Bama) Smith, a tricky substitute halfback, who hasn't played 15 minutes all season. On the first scrimmage play he streaked down the sideline, caught Walemon Price's diagonal

Bill Fincher Makes 'Eternal All-America'

Grantland Rice, whose widely read column, The Sportlight, appears in The Constitution, selects Bill Fincher, Georgia Tech tackle, on his "Eternal All-America" in this week's issue of Collier's.

Rice explains there is little to choose between Fincher and Weir of Nebraska. But he takes Fincher for one tackle and Fats Henry, of Washington and Jefferson, for the other.

In the list of backs, the name of Bobby Dodd, ex-Tennessee great, now coaching at Tech, appears.

Rice's team, which will stir the memory of every old-time follower of football, includes Jack Cannon, who also coached at Tech. Germany Schulz is at center, with Heffelfinger and Cannon at guards, Henry and Fincher at tackles, Muller and Fessler at ends, Grant, Thorpe, Strong and Nevers in the backfield. Because the game was played along the ground and never through the air in the old days, he left off men like Frank Hinkley and Willie Heston and Walter Eckersall.

Brown Is Winner Over Rutgers, 13-0

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 30.—(P)—Brown turned in two 65-yard marches in the final period to humble the previously unbeaten Rutgers football forces, 13-0, this Thanksgiving Day here before 12,000 persons. It was the Scarlet's first setback in 14 starts, since it bowed to New York University early last season.

Both touchdowns were made by replacements, Dick High going over from the one-yard line and Hal Detweiler racing 17 yards for the second counter. Captain John McHaughey place-kicked Brown's 13th point.

'BAMA AERIALS BRING 3 SCORES; MOSLEY STARS

18,000 See Vandy Suffer Worst Defeat in History.

By HARRY P. SNYDER.
NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 30.—(P)—A touchdown-hungry Alabama football team moved into Dudley Field today for a Thanksgiving feast and gorged itself, 39 to 0, with the luckless Vanderbilt eleven footing the bill.

A crowd of more than 18,000 sat under beclouded skies, watching a sluggish Commodore eleven—that had given its all against mighty Tennessee eleven days ago—and a smooth-working band of Red Elephants draw the final curtain on campaigns which were dismally disappointing for both.

It was the worst defeat Vandy ever received at the hands of Alabama and gave the deep southerners a 11-9 edge in rivalry that began in 1903.

PASSING COLLAPSE.
Alabama moved into point territory by way of land and air, capitalizing most of the time on the collapse of the heralded passing ability of Vanderbilt's little Junius (Doc) Plunkett.

Herky Mosley and Paul Spencer brought chilled fans out of their seats with terrific touchdown jaunts of 80 and 64 yards, respectively, both boys employing a tricky, tantalizing change of pace that bewildered the Commodores.

The first two times the Tide took to the air, touchdowns resulted immediately. Alabama pitching one 20 yards behind the goal to Jimmy Nelson early in the first period and flinging another the same distance to the same receiver in the third period.

Pass interceptions, one by Captain Carey Cox, Alabama center playing his last game, the other by Jimmy Helm, substitute for Spencer, paved the way for the two last-quarter markers.

COX GETS 19.
Cox sped 19 yards to the 8 from where Spencer and Mosley thrust away to the 2 with Spencer finally plunging over. Helm's feat consisted of a 28-yard runback to the 18 with less than three minutes to go. Vaughn Tollett and Billy Harrell, third-string backs, banged away to the 6 and with the timer blowing his whistle, Harrell passed to Hal Newman, who fell over the goal line.

Hayward Sanford, the man with the educated toe who kicked a field goal two years ago to defeat Vanderbilt, 9 to 7, and win the Rose Bowl nomination, played off and on but kicked only one extra point in two attempts.

The closest Vanderbilt came to scoring was in the first period after Andrus returned the kickoff 36 yards to the 49 and five plays later held the ball on the 24. Plunkett passed to Hardy Housman who juggled the ball on the goal line.

Score by periods:

Alabama scoring: Touchdowns, Nelson 2, Mosley, Spencer 2, Newman. Point from try after touchdown, Sanford (sub for Newman) (placekick) Mosley (placekick) 2.

SHOE - STRING TACKLE BY PLAINSMAN SPILLS FLORIDA BACK FOR A TWO-YARD LOSS

Jack Meagher's Auburn eleven was forced to rally yesterday at Auburn to get a 7-7 tie in a game that dedicated a new stadium. Cowen (39) is shown as he was dropped by a desperate Tiger player. Ferguson (4) is the great 'Gator sophomore end and No. 22 is Hull, 'Gator guard. The Auburn player ready to swoop down on Cowen is Captain Milton Howell, strong candidate for All-Southeastern honors. The game concludes the season for the Florida eleven.

Edwards Big Star In Citadel Victory

WILMINGTON, N. C., Nov. 30.—(P)—Sparked by the running of Graham Edwards, the Citadel Light Brigade closed its gridiron season here this afternoon with a 21-2 triumph over a stubbornly fighting Wofford eleven.

Edwards made all three of the Cadet touchdowns, snagging a pass from Browning for the first score and plunging the line in the first and third quarters for the other two.

The Charleston club halted a long Wofford drive in the second period by a pass interception, but Edwards, in punt formation, was tackled behind his goal by Covington for the Terrier safety.

an amazing thrower of wet foot-balls, loosed a 30-yard pass to little Herbie Smith, the Aggie's five-foot, seven-inch end, and he carried on nine more yards to the Texas three. Conatser plunged for the score.

The third Aggie's touchdown came in a gift wrapping. While Crain's arching punt from his own 15 was in the air, officials called a foul on a free ball, ejecting Center David Thayer, of Texas, from the game and giving the Farmers the ball on the Texas 15. Conatser swept both ends on two thrusts to the one-foot line and Kimbrough smashed across with a touchdown that made him the Southwest conference's leading scorer.

LAMBERT AWARD WON BY CORNELL

'Big Red' Succeeds Carnegie Tech as East's Best Eleven.

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—(P)—Cornell's unbeaten, untied football team today was voted the winner of the August W. Lambert memorial trophy, annually awarded to the outstanding eastern eleven of the year.

The vote of the committee, composed of 53 football writers, columnists and radio commentators, was almost unanimous in choosing the big Red eleven as successor to Carnegie Tech, winner of the trophy last year. Though Duquesne, also unbeaten and untied, has one game to play—against Detroit Saturday—the trend to Cornell was so pronounced that it was decided to announce the winner today.

Thus for the first time since the award was first presented in 1936, it leaves Pittsburgh. Pitt's Panthers won in 1936 and 1937, before giving way to Tech last year. Head Coach Carl Snavely will be presented the trophy at a dinner here Tuesday. President Edmund E. Day of Cornell also announced his intention of attending the dinner.

ALL IN THE GAME

cept maybe Bob Zupke at Illinois, is a master at keeping opponents guessing.

And now Coach Alex has got the town guessing as to what he really meant by his statement regarding the Orange Bowl game. The statement really was a masterpiece of evasiveness. After studying it carefully, one found that Coach Alex really had refused nothing.

In the first place, no bid has yet been offered Georgia Tech. It would be necessary for the committee to do that first before Tech actually would be committed to say "yes or no."

It's just guesswork, of course, but this corner clings to an idea that if Tech wins Saturday, the first formal invitation to play at Miami will be tendered and that the invitation will be given thoughtful consideration.

Another idea that prompts this line of thought is the very live possibility that the Tech-California series will be called off for a year and resumed at Grant field in 1940.

THEY DON'T COME READY-MADE.
A thought has just occurred about the present Tech team which has made such a fine record and created no end of comment from coast to coast because of its wide variety of attack and the staunchness of its defense.

The Tech players, as a whole, didn't come to the Flats as the cream of the crop. They were not outstanding players. For instance, Captain Murphy, Bob Ison and Billy Gibson, three of the best men on the team, worked up to the varsity by way of the "B" team.

Billy Gibson, a fine runner, blocker and pass receiver, was an end at Tech High and was never a varsity player. Earl Wheby, who has done such outstanding work in the last two games, has spent most of his career on the Bees.

Other Bees who have worked up to varsity rank include S. B. Sutton, a center; the injured Bob Aderhold, a guard; Elmer Dyke, a guard or tackle; Phil Perkinson, a guard; Paul Sprayberry and Jungle Clay, ends; Buck Shaw, Roy Corree and Bobby Beers, backs.

Tech lacks 'em and makes 'em, as Colonel Bob Jones recently had occasion to remark. Few ready-made stars are dropped into the coaches' laps.

A GEORGIA STANDOUT.
He has received small recognition for the work he has done in the Georgia line this season, but Smiley Johnson, guard, probably is one of the best in the conference.

Smiley is as fine a boy as you'll ever find on any college squad, both personally and as regards ability. As a team performer Johnson is tops. He has never been willing to accept credit for anything he has done.

Regardless of how well he has performed in any game, if you should ask him who was responsible for stopping certain plays or for opening holes, he would say it was somebody else. Only the coaches and the boys really know how much Smiley Johnson has meant to the Bulldogs this season.

WHAT A RESPONSE!
If Ferdinand were twins, he could not have taken care of the flood of phone calls seeking the two tickets advertised by this department. Bob Long, who works for our next-door neighbor on Alabama street, had the tickets, but they were gone before he could say Dick Rich.

Judging by the calls and other inquiries as to where tickets might be purchased, it is evident that the Tech-Georgia game would attract close to 40,000 spectators if the seats were available.

As it is, a crowd of close to 30,000, with all temporary seats included, will be present. So far as can be learned, there is not a ticket to be begged, borrowed or stolen at this writing.

What Tech seems to need is a double-decked stadium, for a similar situation existed when Duke and Tech played earlier in the year. There would have been around 40,000 for that game, too.

'NOOGA DEFEATS MERCER, 21 TO 18

Moccasins Score Twice in Final Period to Eke Out Win.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Nov. 30.—(P)—Two spectacular touchdown drives in the final quarter gave the Chattanooga Moccasins a 21-to-18 victory over Mercer's Bears today in the season's finale for both teams.

Frank Orend, junior halfback, and Frank Grigoris, sophomore fullback, provided the fireworks that thrilled 5,240 fans.

Mercer was the first to score, recovering a Chattanooga fumble on the Chattanooga 27 early in the first period. Landrum circled right end for 24 yards and went over guard for the touchdown. The try from placement was blocked.

Chattanooga went ahead in the second quarter when O'Brien recovered Yon's fumble on the Mercer 34. Orend passed to Mathis for 33 yards and Barbee went around left end for 11 and the touchdown. Grigoris made the extra point from placement.

Richards led Mercer to its second touchdown early in the third period. He circled right end for 24 yards to reach the Chattanooga 37 and passed to O'Quinn for 13. Landrum went through a wide gap on the right side of his line to score standing up.

A poor Chattanooga punt, that gave Mercer the ball on Chattanooga's 32, led to the third Bear touchdown. The entire backfield shared in an attack that reached the five-yard mark, from where Landrum went over for the score.

Mercer scoring: Touchdowns, Landrum (sub for Hewland) 3.
Chattanooga scoring: Touchdowns, Grigoris 2, Barbee; points from try after touchdown, Grigoris 3.

The third Aggie's touchdown came in a gift wrapping. While Crain's arching punt from his own 15 was in the air, officials called a foul on a free ball, ejecting Center David Thayer, of Texas, from the game and giving the Farmers the ball on the Texas 15. Conatser swept both ends on two thrusts to the one-foot line and Kimbrough smashed across with a touchdown that made him the Southwest conference's leading scorer.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Nov. 30.—(P)—Birmingham-Southern ended 31 years of intercollegiate football here today with a 9 to 6 victory over its cross-town rival, Howard College, before 10,000 fans.

Dick McMichael, All-Dixie conference back, raced 70 yards with a Howard punt for the Panther touchdown early in the third quarter and Gus Noojin put them ahead with a perfect placement.

Williamson, substitute Howard back, was downed back of the goal line on the game's final play to add two points to the winning total.

TIGERS MARCH 52 YARDS IN 4TH FOR DEADLOCK

Auburn on Florida Two-Yard Line as Final Whistle Blows.

By JOHNNY BRADBERRY.
AUBURN, Ala., Nov. 30.—A slashing 52-yard drive in the fourth quarter here today gave Auburn a hard-earned 7-to-7 tie with Florida's fighting Gators before 13,000 fans watching the Tigers' first home game since 1936, and celebrating the dedication of a new football stadium.

The game was a thrill-packed affair which saw the Tigers on the Gator 2-yard line when the final whistle blew. A spectacular 48-yard sideline sprint by Carl Happer, comparable to Johnny Butler's run against Alabama, carried the Tigers to scoring territory but time ran out before they had time to score on the first Florida team.

Auburn missed other scoring chances, Dick McGowan, who played 60 minutes of brilliant football, failing on two field-goal attempts, one from the 12 and the other from the 25.

Florida started a 49-yard touchdown drive, led by the hard-running Fullback Charlie Tate, in the first quarter and climaxed it when Tate bucked over on the second play of the second quarter.

Auburn's game-tying touchdown and placement was mainly the work of McGowan and Charlie Haynesworth, in the game at fullback for Rufus Deal who was hurt earlier in the battle. McGowan passed 12 yards to Babe McGee over the goal line for the touchdown and then place-kicked the point after.

McGowan, selected by sportswriters as the outstanding player of the game and awarded a trophy by the Blue Key Honorary Society, sparked a 52-yard drive in the early moments of the contest, which ended when the Gators made a great goal line stand on their own two-yard line. Three times the Tigers plunged at the line from the two and they wound up at the same spot. Then McGowan missed his first field goal attempt.

Florida was unable to make any serious threat except their touchdown drive and seemed to be on the ropes in the fourth quarter when the Tigers ripped and snorted through the tired line of the enemy.

BATTISTA GREAT.
Mush Battista, playing on a bad leg, was great in the Gator line and backing it up on Josh Cody's five-man line defense. The Gators used a seven-man line against punts, but were unable to cut down McGowan's kicking average, which was 42.2 yards on nine punts.

The Tigers were playing without the services of regular Center Malvern Morgan and George Kenmore, who were out with injuries. Morgan's absence from the lineup was noticeable and numerous bad

Purples Meet Aggies Tonight for G. I. A. A. Championship

PASSING ATTACK TO BE LAUNCHED BY BOTH SQUADS

Forecast of Rain Will Aid Chances of Heavier Monroe Team.

By ROY WHITE.

Georgia's prep football championship will be at stake at 8 o'clock tonight when Boys' High battles the Monroe Aggies, at Ponce de Leon park. Both teams are unbeaten and Boys' High has a 6-to-6 tie game with Marist as its only mar against an otherwise perfect record. They are the only unbeaten teams in the Georgia Interscholastic Athletic Association.

Monroe Aggies won the G. I. A. A. championship last year and have beaten Marist College, Savannah, Lanier High, Richmond Academy, and Riverside Military Academy for assurance into tonight's championship battle.

Boys' High's ticket to the title game came as a reward for wins over Commercial, Savannah, Columbus, G. M. A., Lanier and Tech High, in addition to three other non-association victories.

A forward passing game is in the offing, for both teams have shown unusual defensive strength. Only 19 points have been scored against Monroe while Boys' High

BARTHOLOMEW SCORES 1ST VOL TOUCHDOWN

Acme Telephoto.

Sam Bartholomew, Tennessee captain and right halfback, noted principally as a blocking back, is shown above as he rammed through the Kentucky line for the Vols' first score yesterday at Lexington. The arrow indicates the ball in Bartholomew's hand as he blasts his way across standing up. No. 48, with back to camera, is Kentucky's Zoeller, but notice how the Tennessee player on the ground has blocked him out, just as other Tennessee teammates have taken out the remaining Wildcat players. With only the Auburn game left on the schedule, Tennessee continues as a prime Rose Bowl favorite, despite a comparatively weak schedule.

with his injured knee and brood. Possibly he brooded because his replacements looked so good.

While rambling through the Kentucky line those Vol backs looked terrific. Buist Warren, Sam Bartholomew, Fred Newman, Johnny Butler and Bob Foxx took turns sifting through the befuddled Wildcats. The blocking in front of them was beautiful, and their net gain by rushing was 166 yards. Tennessee compiled only 11 first downs against Kentucky's 15, but the figures are misleading. The Volunteers struck with a purpose, while the Wildcats burned and stewed too near the 50-yard line.

This was the 13th straight game in which the Volunteers held their opposition scoreless—which is a good record against any sort of teams, including the Boy Scouts. Their closest scrape today came in the second period, when two straight 15-yard penalties for roughness against Tennessee gave Kentucky the ball six yards from a touchdown. Happily for the record, Shepherd, of Kentucky, fumbled at this vital point and Tennessee recovered.

The first two Tennessee touchdowns that broke up the ball game were scored so easily that the Kentucky crowd was frozen into silence. The contest scarcely had started when the Volunteer backs began driving, driving through their opponents' futile defense.

CAFEGO OUT.

Cafego had gone out, replaced by Buist Warren, when Tennessee ran a punt back to Kentucky's 41. The Volunteers, without throwing a pass, went from there for their first touchdown—right through Kentucky's line. Newman, Warren and Foxx, a shifty trio, sifted for gain after gain until the ball was planted a yard from the Wildcat goal, and then Bartholomew practically walked across. The Tennessee attack was so deceptive it scarcely could be figured out from the stand. The Kentucky tacklers were helpless.

Within two minutes the colossus from Knoxville intercepted a pass on Kentucky's 44 and was off and running again. Warren brushed through for 12; Bartholomew made 8 on a lateral; Newman zipped 7; Warren took his turn again, and the pigskin was on Kentucky's 14. Newman took the ball from center, handed it to Foxx, and Foxx bulleted through a yawning gap on the right side for a touchdown. That sewed up the decision, and Coach Neyland began sending in third-stringers.

From there on, taking the figures at face value, Kentucky had the best of things. The Wildcats trotted out a sophomore named Ermal Allen, who could pass like a dream, and a runner named Junior Jones, who could scat. In the second quarter this combination once ate up 61 yards down the field. Late in the third period the same pair started from its own 7-yard line and went 65 yards before Tennessee held, but nothing came of all this, and when the Wildcats relaxed from their labors Tennessee scored again.

Dave Zoller, of Kentucky, fumbled after taking a punt early in the closing chapter, and a swarm of yellow-jerseyed Tennessees covered the ball on the Wildcats' 14. Butler plunged to the 10, then faded back and completed a pass to Emil Hust in the end zone. Hust outflung a couple of defenders for the ball. This time (Newman and Foxx having flubbed their placement tries after the first two touchdowns), Thompson flipped a pass to Warren for the extra point.

Tennessee didn't need to use the pass as a major weapon, with its backs able to tear Kentucky apart almost at will, but the Vols proved they could be very handy with the aerial weapon. At odd moments they completed five out of eight attempts for a gain of 41 yards.

Ken Overlin Won't Agree To Box Ben

Hasn't Brown Enough, Yet? He Asks; Promoters Still Trying.

Ben Brown's challenge for a return match with Ken Overlin in Atlanta met a blistering attack yesterday from the Washington flash, who is ranked No. 2 middleweight in the world by the National Boxing Association.

"Hasn't that guy got enough yet?" stormed Overlin when informed over long distance that Ben is not convinced Ken is the better man and wants another chance. "He's either the gamiest or the craziest guy in the world. I don't know which. Why should I fight him again? I'm in line for an early title match and that Brown might connect with a lucky punch or something. You know he can hit like a mule."

Sports Arena officials, who would stage the match at the city auditorium, announced they still had hopes of landing the match and expressed the belief Overlin would agree if offered a big guarantee. They promise a definite announcement by Sunday.

Sam Sobel, Brown's manager, contends Brown deserves another shot at Overlin because he suffered an attack of ptomaine poisoning five days before last Monday's fight at Miami and entered the ring weak and lacking his usual fire. Sobel says Brown proved what a great fighter he was by going 10 bruising rounds and coming out unmarked.

Overlin has won two decisions over Brown and they fought to a draw another time.

TECH HARRIERS WIN S.E.C. TITLE

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Nov. 30.—(AP)—Paced by Captain Arthur Small, star senior half-miler, Georgia Tech's cross-country team today won the 1939 Southeastern conference crown by a nine-point margin over the University of Alabama team. Louisiana State University finished third, 34 points behind the Crimson, and the University of Georgia placed fourth, 11 points behind L. S. U.

Team scores were: Georgia Tech, 29; Alabama, 36; L. S. U., 70, and Georgia, 81.

CORBY, DILLMAN BATTLE TONIGHT

Dillman, three times victor here against no defeat, insists that after tonight he will be head bad man hereabouts and that the Red Shadow will be only a memory. Both principals are powerful and able to absorb and inflict heavy punishment.

Charlie Keene, the ball o'fire from St. Louis, encounters Babe Dusek, Nebraska stranger, in the 30-minute curtain raiser at 8:30.

Jackets Fear Heavy Wet Field; Georgia's Spirit Improved

THREAT OF RAIN MAY HURT TECH; SELL OUT SEEN

Aderhold, Wright, Gibson Not in Best of Condition.

By JACK TROY.
Unsettled weather conditions have added to the growing uncertainty regarding the outcome of the Tech and Georgia game Saturday.

Threat of rain and a wet field leave a great deal to conjecture. The Jackets haven't had to handle a wet ball this season.

Rain, it is figured, would hurt Tech a great deal more than Georgia, since a great many of Tech's intricate plays depend upon sure handling of the football.

Not in many years has a Tech and Georgia game so captured the fancy of the populace. Thousands are clamoring for tickets and the supply is exhausted.

The reason for the game being so attractive to the masses is because of Tech's unbeaten conference record. Tech has everything to lose, while Georgia has everything to gain.

TICKETS ALL SOLD.
With the ticket supply now exhausted, a capacity crowd of almost 30,000 will jam Grant field on Saturday come rain, snow, sleet or whatever the weather man has in store.

The Jackets brushed up on positional play, signals, kicking, passing, etc., yesterday. There was no scrimmage. Robert Aderhold is out, Jim Wright can play only a very short time, at best, and Billy Gibson is not in the best of shape.

It looks very much as if Tech is going to have to fall back on boys like Earl Wheby, Bobby Fair, Bobby Bears and Howard Ector to do the ball carrying with the help of Bob Isom and his end arounds.

Georgia's attack will be centered around Cliff Kimsey, Jim Fordham, Heyward Allen and Captain Vassa Cate.

Tech's line is weakened by the loss of Aderhold and Wright and the fact remains that no teams this season really have pushed Georgia's forward wall around.

If the day is dry Georgia Tech's passing game may prove a dire threat to Georgia. But there is no way to tell at this time what the changing weather conditions will bring.

On the basis of the season's records, Georgia Tech should enter the game as a decided favorite, but season's records may never mean very much when Tech and Georgia meet; and Georgia has a bit of a psychological advantage owing to the fact that Tech has won only one game of the series in the last 10 years.

downs to Florida's 7. Auburn gained 267 yards to 79 and out-punted her enemy, 42.2 yards to 37.9.

McGowen was the leading ground gainer of the game with 99 yards to his credit in 18 runs.

Gators Get Going.

Florida's touchdown drive started after McGowen kicked off of bounds on his own 49. Tate plunged for nine and then made 13 after a pass was incomplete.

Pat Reen got two before Milton Howell and Earnest Mills could stop him. Howard Burns chunked Cowen for a two-yard loss on an end run, but Tate then passed nine yards to Hanna, who was tackled on the 18. Tate gained three for a first down. Reen ran for one and was replaced by Tommy Harrison, who picked up nine and another first down on the five. Tate bucked over on two tries and then place-kicked the point.

The Gators held on to their lead gamely until Auburn mustered their power in the final quarter.

Harrison punted from his own 30 to the Auburn 32 where McGowen was tackled. Florida drew a 15-yard penalty for piling on and then the drive started.

TOUCHDOWN TWINS.

Haynesworth drove through the line for six before Smoak could flag him to earth. McGowen raced through for a first down at the Florida 37 as the third quarter ended.

Wendling got five before Goff tackled him. McGowen got two. Then Haynesworth ran for 19 yards on a no-shift play. Hull stopped him at the eleven. McGowen was tossed for a three-yard loss by Tate. Haynesworth bucked for two and then McGowen tossed a high pass to McGeehe who caught it over the goal.

McGowen's placement was good and the score was tied. The Tigers got going immediately after

$160,000 Grid Stadium Is Dedicated at Auburn

State, National Dignitaries Aid in Program As 15,000 Spectators View Proceedings.

By JOHNNY BRADBERRY.

AUBURN, Ala., Nov. 30.—A $160,000 football plant was dedicated here today by state and national dignitaries preceding the game between Auburn and Florida, the Tigers' first home contest since 1936.

With nearly 15,000 fans seated in the new stadium, Dr. L. N. Duncan, president of Auburn, welcomed students, alumni and Florida officials.

"On this homecoming day we witness the fulfillment of a dream of four decades—a dream that has taken form and substance through faith of those endowed with the Auburn spirit and through the aid and co-operation of the federal and state governments," Dr. Duncan said.

MASTER OF CEREMONIES.
Dr. Duncan also acted as master of ceremonies and next presented Coaches Jack Meagher, of Auburn; Josh Cody, of Florida, and Captains Milton Howell and Clark Goff.

Dr. John Tigert, president of Florida, said, "President Duncan, on behalf of the University of Florida, may I express our pleasure in joining in these festivities."

Senator Lister Hill expressed his pleasure at having a part in the program. "This occasion emphasizes the growth of one of Alabama's most important educational institutions. On behalf of the President of the United States and the Public Works Administration, it is my honor and pleasure to present this stadium to the board of trustees of the Alabama Polytechnical Institute."

Governor Frank M. Dixon accepted the stadium on behalf of the trustees, the state and all Auburn men.

FIRST COACH.

George Mattison, president of the Auburn Alumni Association, was introduced and presented Auburn's first football coach, Dr. George Petrie. All former Auburn athletes and managers stood at attention as Dr. Petrie was introduced.

Dr. Petrie said "We do hereby dedicate this Auburn stadium to the glory and memory of all true Auburn athletes, high in athletic attainment, representative of good sportsmanship both in victory and defeat; and do charge their successors on the field of sports to continue the traditional athletic performances which leave behind only the echoes of fair combat and carry with them the memories of a game that taught them the fundamentals of true democracy."

LA. NORMAL WINS.

NATCHITOCHES, La., Nov. 30. (P)—Louisiana Normal College's Demons defeated an ancient rival, Southwestern Louisiana Institute, here today, 6 to 0, gaining the S. I. A. A. championship and a chance at one or more of the smaller year-end "bowl" games. About 5,000 fans watched the game.

CENTENARY WINS.

RUSTON, La., Nov. 30. (P)—Centenary College opened a mixed running and passing attack in the third and fourth periods today to overwhelm the Louisiana Tech Bulldogs, 19 to 0.

BULLDOGS WORK WHILE STUDENTS CHEER IN STAND

Weather Holds Key to Starting Lineup, Says Butts.

ATHENS, Ga., Nov. 30.—An improvement in team spirit brought the first cheerful news from Georgia's football camp this week as the Bulldogs virtually closed preparations for Saturday's game in Atlanta with Georgia Tech.

Coach Wallace Butts was still pessimistic about his team's chances for victory over the highly favored Jackets but regarded the display of spirit this afternoon as the most important development of the week.

Several hundred students at the university gathered in spacious Sanford stadium and conducted one of the loudest pep meetings in the school's history while the Bulldogs worked out.

PEP MEETING.

Accompanied by the band and inspired by four cheer leaders, the students yelled and sang for more than a half hour. It was one of the finest tributes ever paid a Georgia team or a Georgia coaching staff.

"Win, lose or draw against Tech Saturday, we still think this is one of the finest Georgia teams we've ever seen and they deserve our whole-hearted support," one cheer leader, who led the movement for the stadium pep meeting, declared.

"They've fought like no other Georgia team has ever fought. They've taken their licks without a single alibi when any other team would have been crying over injuries, illness and the like, and despite the fact they've been whipped there has been no team walk off the field after playing Georgia this year that wouldn't admit they had all they could take."

Coach Butts sent his team through the lightest workout of the week, the entire squad attired in seat clothes, and announced Friday's drill, if there is one at all, will be very brief.

He is still undecided about his starting lineup, weather conditions holding the answer to a couple of doubtful spots. If it's raining, Woodrow Brown, especially adept at backing up the line, is a certainty to open at blocking back in place of Bob Nowell, the Chattanooga junior may get the call, anyway.

Captain Vassa Cate, who pranced through the drill with very little trace of the limp that has characterized his running since the Auburn game, will likely be at the wingback post and, if possible, the speedy Georgia leader will play a large part of the game for "Dooley" Matthews, his number one relief man, who is still bothered with a bad leg.

LINE-UP CHANGES.

James Skipworth and Green Keltner will open at the ends,

Charley Williams and Tommy Green at tackles, Walter Wilfong and Smiley Johnson at guards, Tommy Witt or Steve Hughes, center; Jim Fordham, fullback; Cliff Kimsey or Heyward Allen, tailback, and either Nowell or Brown at the blocking back to complete the Georgia eleven.

Excellent end play also will have an important part in deciding tonight's game, for Monroe has Jake Lance and Elmo Lavenander, two of the best ends in the state, against Captain Dick Conger and John Brown, another great pair of ends.

A forecast of rain will be a boon to Monroe's chances for the Aggie team is much heavier as a whole than that of Boys' High and the visitors don't depend so much on passes and trickery for long gains.

McWhorter, Bulldog Great, Looks Ahead to New Job

Ex-Georgia Star Elected Athens Mayor Without Opposition.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION. ATHENS, Ga., Nov. 30.—Bob McWhorter has the ball again for the first time in 25 years and is headed for what Athenians hope will be a long run as their mayor, and for what he hopes will be a period of industrial development and increased pay rolls for Athens.

The former all-Southern athlete of the University of Georgia was unopposed in the recent Democratic primary, and will take office in January.

Here it might be added that Athens is a city proud of its peculiarities: its double-barreled cannon; the tree that owns itself, and a non-political tradition among its mayors.

Spurred by too good government, and afraid that Dudley's retirement might leave them with a common, garden variety of chief executive, Athenians drafted McWhorter, a Phi Beta Kappa, and professor in the university's law school.

The stocky former football and baseball star has announced that his primary interest lies in "bringing more industries to Athens."

"You know," he said, "we've got one of the biggest enterprises in the state, the university. And with our exceptionally fine city schools, families that move to Athens can educate their children all the way from kindergarten through college and professional school without having to send them away from home."

Seeks Industries. "I am sure the advantages of Athens as a home for industries and for people who want to educate their children can be broadcast more widely."

"I am sure," he continued, "the mayor and council will continue to give Athens a good street program, proper recreational facilities, and library accommodations as well as the other services municipalities give their citizens."

McWhorter, Athenians say, will go into office with the same backing they gave him in the days when he was captain of the university's football and baseball teams. As a member of the football team he was an iron-man and played each minute of every game.

As energetic today as he was then, his looks belie the supposed life professors are supposed to lead.

The son of Superior Court Judge and Mrs. Hamilton McWhorter, he was born in Oglethorpe county, and moved to Athens when he was 11. He graduated from the university in 1914, after capturing nearly all the available scholastic and athletic honors, and studied law at the University of Virginia.

World War Veteran. Enlisting in the army at the United States' entry into the World War, regular army officers found his passing arm so effective they detailed Captain McWhorter to teach recruits the delicate business of tossing hand grenades.

After the Armistice, he returned to Athens, and began to practice law with his father, soon to be appointed a faculty member of the Lumpkin Law School of the university, where he has distinguished himself as an authority on governmental affairs.

Since his graduation he has continued his interest in university athletics as a member of the athletic association, assistant faculty chairman of athletics, and as president of the Boosters' Club, organized to foster the growth of university sports.

His only previous actual political experience was the task of organizing Athens' third ward in the recent municipal bond election. Under his leadership, the ward polled the largest number of votes, both actual and percentage, in the city, and the bonds went over.

McWhorter is also president of the Men's Council of the First Baptist church, a member of the board of ushers, and a former associate deacon. He was married in 1921 to Miss Louise Walker, of Monroe. The McWhorters reside on Springdale street, near his father's old estate, and have a son, Robert Jr.

Approximately a quarter century ago, Bob McWhorter was All-Southern halfback and captain of the University of Georgia football and baseball teams. Unopposed in the recent Democratic primary for mayor of Athens, he has no opposition in the election next January.

Bob McWhorter today, mayor-elect, professor in the University law school, and an all-round civic leader.

The Jeeter Lesters are getting ready to move off the island.

ERKKO'S DAUGHTER REPORTED WOUNDED

Foreign Minister's Home Destroyed in Air Raid, Newsman Says.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Friday, Dec. 1.—(UP)—The newspaper Dagens Nyheter's Helsinki correspondent wrote early today that the home of Finnish Foreign Minister Eljas Erikko on Kalevala street in Helsinki was destroyed in the Soviet air raid yesterday afternoon and that his 17-year-old daughter, Patricia, was wounded severely.

The dispatch said Erikko's wife and their seven-year-old son, Aatos, were unhurt.

"Eight houses still were burning in downtown Helsinki, but the fire was under control," the dispatch said. "The municipal hospital was burned out. I never saw worse scenes, even in Madrid or Barcelona."

"The bombs were of the 250-kilogram type mixed with incendiary. One of the big ones fell in the street near the Russian legation and shattered the windows of the legation and fired three houses. I believe 60 to 80 persons were killed there as many women and children rushed to the cellar just before the building collapsed."

Time Lock Set As for Holiday; Bank Borrows

SAVANNAH, Ga., Nov. 30.—(P) Confusion over the dual Thanksgiving Day observance was felt by the Savannah Bank & Trust Company today.

The official who sets the time lock on the vault reckoned today as a holiday. He set the lock to be opened Friday morning.

Bank tellers reporting for work this morning found no currency on hand. Cashier Hennemier, admitting the error caused "a little inconvenience," said the bank obtained the money necessary for the day's operation from the Federal Reserve across the street.

Stewards of Mary Branan Memorial Methodist church, have elected J. L. Milam as chairman of the board. Other officers named at a recent meeting were E. E. Wilson, vice chairman; Walter Barnwell, secretary, and E. M. McGee, treasurer.

Beta Omega Phi fraternity will hold a business meeting at 8 o'clock tonight at the home of Tony Grubbs, at 693 Spring street, according to the announcement made last night by Jimmy Kilpatrick, president.

Merit ribbons for excellent records have been awarded by Riverside Military Academy at Gainesville to Rhymes Tyler Gresham, of 957 Springdale road, and Thomas Roper, of 275 West Pace Ferry road.

J. Wilson Parker, grand master of Georgia Masons, will address the Atlanta Masonic Club meeting at 12:30 o'clock today in Rich's tea room. All Masons are invited to attend, according to Sam Rothberg, of the Atlanta club.

Second Ward Civic Club will meet at 7:30 o'clock Tuesday night at Murphy Junior High school.

Poll managers for Decatur's uncontested city election Wednesday will be appointed at 7:30 o'clock tonight when the city commission held their regular meeting in the city hall, it was announced yesterday by City Manager A. E. Newman.

Annual dinner of Ohio State Alumni will be held tonight at the Robert Fulton hotel. F. M. Craft is president of the local group.

Regular meeting of the 40-Plus Group will be held at 7:30 o'clock tonight in the Assembly Hall of the Chamber of Commerce building.

Students of the John Marshall Law school will debate Georgia's need of civil service for all government offices now given by appointment, at 9 o'clock tonight. N. C. Carter and Ted Cabok will uphold the affirmative, and R. E. Champion, John S. Jackson and Grady Simmons the negative. The debate for Friday night, December 8, will be on the Georgia parole system's application.

Marguerite Taylor, 1179 Boulevard, N. E., a student in the School of Fine Arts at the University of Pennsylvania, has accepted an invitation to membership in Sigma Delta Tau following the annual rushing season sponsored by women's fraternities on the campus.

A minstrel show for the benefit of the Commercial High school band will be held at 8 p. m. tonight in the school auditorium. An open house will precede the performance.

At the City Hall

Atlanta's budget commission will begin at 10 o'clock this morning the task of attempting to make an estimated income of $9,900,000 for 1940 meet allocations totaling approximately $10,300,000. It's a thankless job, cutting departmental requests, but Mayor Hartsfield and his aides on the commission are going to work on it.

The shoppers' bees, which formerly ended their northern run at the Fox theater, today will run to Eleventh street. City council yesterday requested the extension when Alderman Frank H. Reynolds and Councilmen John A. White and J. Frank Beck, members of the fifth ward delegation in council, joined in urging the new service.

Congressman Robert Ramspeck will speak at 10 o'clock this morning at Murphy Junior High school as a feature of the Atlanta Public Forum. The school glee club will provide special music.

Raleigh Drennon III, five years old, yesterday appeared at a meeting of the public works committee of council accompanied by his grandfather, the original Raleigh, and announced he is going to be an All-American at Georgia Tech when he grows up. The youth's father was one of Tech's mainstays and also an All-Southern guard in his heyday.

A total of 120 persons have been bitten by dogs for the first ten months of this year, and of the 92 dogs killed and examined, 55 had rabies. W. H. Edwards, city sanitary engineer, said yesterday. A total of 7,962 persons have bought tags for their pets and had them inoculated against the disease.

At the Courthouse

Trial of Paul Wilson, a county justice of the peace, indicted December 2, 1938, on a charge of bribery, struck a legal snag yesterday in Fulton superior court. Wilson's attorneys contended that the law requires a grand jury to call a justice of the peace before it before indicting him. Assistant Solicitor E. E. Andrews contended the law did not apply to bribery charges. Judge E. E. Pomeroy ordered both sides to submit arguments to him in briefs by Saturday. He will then decide if Wilson was legally indicted.

Three more youths, 20 years old or younger, received 12-month sentences yesterday in Fulton superior court on charges of larceny of an automobile. They were Calvin North, 18, Henry Dishmon, 20, and George Verdue, 17. Vernon Palmer, 17, was jointly indicted with the three but was not tried yesterday.

Roy Gentry, operator of an Ivy street lunchroom, was fined $500 and sentenced to 12 months yesterday in Fulton criminal court on charges of selling whisky on Sunday and without a license. Judge Wood said he would suspend the sentence upon payment of the fine. Gentry appealed and posted bond of $1,000. City officers asserted they found Gentry in a backroom with 40 pints after a sale had been made on Sunday, September 10.

COVINGTON MAN, 83,

HIT, KILLED BY AUTO

SWAINSBORO, Ga., Nov. 30.—(AP)—Alex Franklin Smith, 83, of Covington, Ga., was killed instantly here today when struck by an automobile two blocks from the business district of Swainsboro.

State Highway Patrolman Jones named Lamar Brown, 25, of Summertown, driver of the car. He is being held on a charge of involuntary manslaughter, the officer said.

The victim, son of the late Benjamin Smith, a captain in the Revolutionary War, was visiting a son, B. R. Smith, a Swainsboro contractor.

Survivors include another son, a daughter and several grandchildren.

Atlanta Girls Seek Beauty Before Ball

Atlanta's "Gone With the Wind" festival is promoting a boom in the beauty parlor business.

The city's fairer sex are intent upon upholding the reputation that "the prettiest girls in the world come from Peachtree street," and they don't mean for any visitors here during the festival week to get any wrong impressions.

At least five beauty salons yesterday were telling their customers they were already booked "every hour and minute for three days preceding the 'Gone With the Wind' ball."

ROME MAN SLAIN; WIFE UNDER BOND

Attached With Fire Poker, Woman Claims.

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. ROME, Ga., Nov. 30.—Rites for George Buford Green, 38, local auto mechanic, who died of bullet wounds allegedly inflicted by his wife, will be held Saturday afternoon in Calera (Ala.) Methodist church.

Mrs. Green meanwhile was at liberty under $300 bond, following her arrest on charges of assault with intent to murder. She is scheduled to face a preliminary hearing Friday before Justice of the Peace Tom Edwards.

A man listed by Sheriff M. F. Horton as A. J. Lawley, 51, railroad employe, also was arrested in connection with the shooting.

A. DOUGLAS POOLE TO BE BURIED TODAY

Private Rites at Crown Hill Graveside.

Private funeral services for A. Douglas Poole, former Atlanta policeman, will be conducted at 10 o'clock this morning at the graveside in Crown Hill cemetery by Dr. Louis D. Newton. Burial will be under direction of J. Austin Dillon.
